

GERMAN ARMS CONTROL END IS AGREED ON

Private Conference in Stresemann's Bedroom Brings Agreement To Disband Allied Board.

LEAGUE TO RULE OVER DISARMING

Evacuation of Rhine Bridge Heads and All German Soil Envisaged
in Problem.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Geneva, December 8.—The German disarmament problem was settled tonight. The allied and German delegates reached a compromise agreement
after several confidential conversations today, chiefly in Foreign Minister Stresemann's bedroom, as he is suffering from grippe.

Here Stresemann received Sir Auston Chamberlain and Aristide Briand
in a flowered dressing gown over striped pajamas and carpet slippers.

The settlement eliminates one of the greatest problems in the Franco-German relations, leaving open only one major question—that of the military occupation of the Rhine. Evacuation of the Rhine bridgeheads and clearing German soil of all foreign troops are envisaged in the second phase of the disarmament control problem, which will be examined by a conference of the Locarno powers
some time before March 1.

Commission to Leave.
The new accord provides that the inter-allied military control commission, with headquarters in Berlin since the armistice, will leave Germany and be dissolved by January 15 or 30.

Supervision of Germany's disarmament
will be placed in charge of a league commission, as provided by the covenant. This commission will be authorized to investigate any complaints of secret armament by Germany which any league member may take.

Practically, however, the agreement means almost complete cessation of foreign prying into Germany's military, naval and air affairs.

The procedure adopted for the elimination of allied control embodies concessions both by Germany and France.
Germany abandons its claims that league control shall be exercised over all states who are members, instead of merely the defeated powers, and France waives her demand that Germany conform with certain unfulfilled requirements before withdrawing the allied commission from Berlin.

To Whitewash Germany.

A special session of the ambassadors' council will be summoned tomorrow at the French foreign office.
Conforming with instructions, the ambassadors will whitewash Germany and find that the German government has executed practically every point demanded by the Versailles treaty.

Three or four matters not yet satisfied will be pointed out as minor details of no great importance.

Friday or Saturday the interested powers' representatives will meet here again and Herr Stresemann will promise that the unexecuted provisions will be fulfilled within a reasonable time. These matters involve the dismantling of the German em-pirements and forts at Koenigsberg, Kustin and Glogau, on the Polish frontier, dissolution of military societies and suppression of export of privately manufactured war materials.

In exchange for the pledges the allies will agree to withdraw the military control commission in Berlin and substitute the league board, which tentatively was constituted with General De Sticker as head in 1924.

REED AND HAWES INFORM W. C. T. U THEY VOTE "WET"

Chicago, December 8.—(AP)—Senator Reed and Senator-Elect Hawes, of Missouri, have informed the W. C. T. U.
that organization announced today
that they will vote "wet" despite the recent Missouri referendum which polled a dry majority.

Public Notice

Half a century ago a merchant would start off his advertisement with some such caption as that above, set in black type, and then he would state that he had just received a new stock of fresh merchandise, and invite inspection.

An advertisement of that sort would not attract many buyers today, for advertisement readers of the present age are accustomed to literary and pictorial advertisements produced by writers and artists who rank high in their professions.

Advertisements of the latter type appear every day in The Constitution, and as they offer the highest type of merchandise at prices that represent a real money saving, it is no wonder that the purchasing agents for the home take real delight in reading Constitution advertisements every morning.

Coolidge Blamed For Cutting Funds To Build Cruisers

PLAN 'BLACK LIST' OF LAW-BREAKING BUSINESS HOUSES

Operators of Alleged "Joints" Objectives in New Police Committee
Drive on Crime.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

Lieutenant E. S. Acree will prepare at once a black list of operators of alleged "joints," where denizens
of the underworld are wont to ply their trades, as the first step in a gigantic offensive against vice and gambling dens and liquor dispensers.

This decision was made Wednesday night at a special called meeting of the police committee of city council, and plans to carry on a relentless warfare to dam the flow of contraband liquor into Atlanta were laid at its session.

Those whose names appear on the black list will be haled before the police committee at its next session,
December 16, and there will be required to show cause why council should not revoke their business licenses, while individual culprits seized in the police war will face recorder's courts.

Last 1926 Offensive.
With the police committee prepared to draw the battle lines closer together in order to launch its last offensive for this year, indications were that contraband Christmas "joy"
would be quoted on run row in Atlanta at materially advanced prices
and the ultimate consumer again
would be the man to suffer.

The committee Wednesday night seemed to take the attitude that it would make one last attempt to clean up the city before it goes out of existence January 1, when Mayor-elect L. N. Hagstaff will assume office and under the city charter, name another police committee to stand at the helm of Atlanta's law enforcement department.

It also will take $239,310.28 more
to operate the police department efficiently and effectively next year than it did last, according to a tentative budget adopted Wednesday night by the committee. A total of $870,000—just $30,000 short of $1,000,000—is the estimate of the police committee submitted today to B. Graham West, city comptroller.

Want 10 New Cars.

Major items called provide for the purchase of 10 new automobiles, addition of 50 new patrolmen, construction of another recorder's court and replacement and repairing of certain cells from which desperate and elusive prisoners are wont to attempt to cut their way to freedom. None have succeeded this year although several have come dangerously near slipping out of improperly equipped cells.
The cost of the replacements in the budget are estimated at $32,000, while office and rating supplies will consume another $17,500.

Pay rolls are the largest single item
and are more than all other combined being $913,027.60. The pay roll alone is $183,058.88 more than the total budget of this year, which stood at $730,968.72.

No other business was considered by the committee.

JOHN D. DEPARTS FOR WINTER GOLF SEASON IN SOUTH

New York, December 8.—John D.
Rockefeller has started south for his winter of golf on the Rockefeller estate near Orlando, Fla.

The millionaire founder of the Standard Oil company selected a good day to venture out as the cold wave
which had enveloped the east earlier in the week had abated.

Four large automobiles, including the luxurious limousine in which Rockefeller was riding, carried his party of persons to the "Penolvania" station where they boarded the Havana special of the Atlantic Coast Line.

Budget Bureau Makes No

thorized by Congress

VINSON ATTACKS COOLIDGE ACTION

Georgian Declares President Signed Budget and Thereby Assumed Full Responsibility.

Washington, December 8.—(AP)—

Responsibility for failure of the budget bureau to recommend an application for construction of three light cruisers authorized last winter by congress was placed directly on President Coolidge today by Representative Vinson, of Georgia, ranking democrat
on the house naval committee.

He contended at a committee hearing that inasmuch as the president had signed the budget report that he assumed responsibility for omission
of funds for this work.

Asked for Funds.

Vinson's charge came after Secretary Wilbur had testified that the navy department had transmitted a request for funds for this purpose to the budget, and on the heels of a charge
by Representative Britten, of Illinois, ranking republican on the committee,
that the director of the budget was
to blame.

Secretary Wilbur told the committee that the navy air program had included a proposal for construction of two dirigibles, but that the budget bureau had refused to sanction more than one. This was done, he said, in spite of the fact that the ships could be built at a saving of $2,000,000.

The director of the budget gave no reason for cutting out one, he added.

Britten asked Wilbur if he prepared his budget to meet the requests of the budget. The secretary said he did.

Director Is Assailed.

"Then the director of the budget
has more power than Mussolini," Britten said, "and poses as knowing more about the navy department than the specialists who are trained at our national academies." It appears that he directs our national defense.

Admiral E. W. Eberle, chief of naval operations, testified that the United States now has only 10 light cruisers, as against England's 40.

Eight new ships of this class were authorized by congress in 1924. Two are under construction and appropriations have been made for three others.

'SOLID SOUTH' NOW BREAKING STATES MIMS

Vanderbilt Educator
Tells Southern Society of New York of New Civil War in Dixie.

LIBERAL TRIUMPH ASSURED, HE SAYS

Senator George Declares That Energy and Capital of Nation Have Turned to South.

New York, December 8.—(AP)—Dr.

Edwin Mims, professor of English literature at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., speaking tonight at a dinner of the New York Southern society, said: "It is time to have done with so much talk about southern chivalry, southern manners and hospitality, even southern ideals and traditions."

Dr. Mims, who is the author of "The Advancing South," shared with Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, the speaker's table at the dinner.
Robert Adamson presided as president of the society.

Asserting that the "solid south" is no longer a reality—it is breaking,"
Dr. Mims said:

"I wish to speak of another civil war that is now being fought out in every community and state in the south, and of another reconstruction
that is synonymous with the rebuilding of the old commonwealth. The fight is on between the progressive and the liberals and the conservatives or reactionaries."

Economic Efficiency.

"In this present war the progressives are fighting for economic efficiency, for widespread intelligence,
for the right of criticism, for freedom
of thought, for genuine nationalism.
They are going to win, not in every skirmish, not immediately, but eventually, and on the whole line of battle."

"If you ask me whether I am a southerner, my reply must be: Yes, one kind, but not all kinds. The solidarity of the south, an inheritance
from the time when men thought alike on one question and consequently on many others, is no longer a source of pride but of humiliation to many of its most devoted sons. Even in politics an increasing number of business men and professional men are no longer voting one way and praying another way, but are following the dictates of their conscience and patriotism. Many are hoping that

POWER MERGER PLANS EXPLAINED BY ARKWRIGHT

President of Georgia Railway and Power Company Issues Statement on Stock Transfer

Plans under which it is proposed that the Georgia Railway and Power company and the Georgia Railway and Electric company will be consolidated with four other Georgia power companies and which will be submitted to a meeting of stockholders of the respective companies to be held in Atlanta December 15, were outlined in detail Wednesday, by Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company.

Companies to be consolidated under the proposed plan are the Georgia Railway and Power company, Georgia Railway and Electric company, Georgia Power company, Athens Railway and Electric company, Rome Railway and Light company and the East Georgia Power company.

Details of the method to be followed in exchanges of stock of the respective companies for stock in the new company which is to be formed to supplant the six companies are explained by Mr. Arkwright in his statement.

Directors of the six companies involved have approved the proposed consolidation, according to Mr. Arkwright, and if a majority of stockholders of each of the companies approves the proposal at the meeting December 15, the agreement will become effective.

The proposed consolidation affords
the vehicle for providing for a very large section of the state an adequate, dependable public utility service which would not be possible otherwise, according to Mr. Arkwright.

Plans for the exchange of stock of the old companies for stock of the new company and the basis on

Free Speech Is Oglethorpe Rule—Jacobs

Mrs. Mead Speaks to Students, Introduced by President Jacobs.

Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead, vice president of the National Council for President of War, Wednesday morning addressed students at Oglethorpe university after Dr. Thorne Jacobs, president of the Presbyterian institute,
had introduced her and invited her to present her views on "International Peace" in any way she chose.

"I do not care what you say to these students," Dr. Jacobs said. "The chief point with me is that you have
been invited to speak at Oglethorpe.
It is the purpose of this university to teach its students to think for themselves."

It was founded on the same
principles of free speech and free
thought that the United States was founded on. I cannot sincerely believe that the mind of any Oglethorpe student could be corrupted by any address or the expression of any views
on international problems.

"I believe that college students as a group can think better than the average group of adults. If they cannot,
taking into consideration the training
they are undergoing, they should be back in high school."

Mrs. Mead, a prominent Boston woman who was barred this week from speaking at Agnes Scott and Emory universities on opposition from the American Legion and others, told the Oglethorpe students that it was "the duty of the youth of America to think both for itself and for the destitute
youth of certain European countries."

"A militarist is one who relies on force," she said. "He thinks that the innocent conscript should risk death to settle disputes which he did not cause. The same principle should be applied in international relations that has been so successfully applied to relations between individuals, cities and states."

"Europe today is in the same disorganized condition that the United States was in 1776. The United States has settled disputes between states by means of a world court, whose decisions should be enforced like those of the supreme court, without the aid of military power. The United States, in joining the world court, would be free to leave it whenever she wished.
It can, therefore, not be said that the United States would be entangled in the affairs of Europe."

Weird Music Is Feature Of New American Opera

Chicago, December 8.—(AP)—Musical themes running the gamut from church hymns and Irish melodies to pirate chanties are sprinkled through the score of "A Witch of Salem," Charles Wakefield Cabman's new American opera, given its world premier tonight
by the Chicago Civic Opera company.

In addition, more than a hint of the one time operatic outcast syncopation made its appearance, while the witchcraft themes of the opera were accompanied by difficult and unusual rhythms. No new instruments were employed but countless weird percussion effects were utilized as the stark New England tale was unfolded.

The libretto, which is based on the witchcraft fear that swept Massachusetts in the 17th century, was written by Nellie Richmond Eberhart, now a resident of Chicago, who has been
Mr. Cabman's collaborator for a number of years.

The opera thus was an all-American affair, written by Americans, based on a native theme, conducted by a Chicagoan and sung in English. Originally scheduled for production last season,
the premier was postponed until this year to permit more adequate preparation for the elaborate spectacle.

The leading roles were sung by Eide
Noreen, Irene Pavloska, Augusta
Lentini and Charles Hackett, the latter the well known American tenor.
To Henry G. Weber, member of a prominent Chicago family, went the honor of being the first American conductor to direct the world premiere of another American composer.

Mr. Cabman's previous operas include "The Garden of Mystery," a one-act piece produced in New York in 1925, and "Shanewis," an Indian opera staged by the Metropolitan Opera company at New York in 1918
and 1919. The latter was the first American opera to live beyond one season in the Metropolitan repertoire.

GREEN SUPPORTS FIVE-DAY WEEK EQUALIZATION FEE PLAN IS INDORSED

Labor Head Believes Shorter Work Time
Would Equalize Production and Consumption.

Chicago, December 8.—(AP)—At the head of 28 resolutions adopted at the closing session of its convention
today, the American Farm Bureau federation placed a demand upon congress for farm relief legislation providing for the handling of surpluses
through a federal farm loan board, empowered to assess an equalization fee, distributing among producers of each commodity the cost of handling that surplus.

For the first time cotton growers represented at the convention joined with growers of other crops in indorsement of the equalization fee and farm bureau leaders hailed their act as insuring the passage, before the end of the next session of congress, of farm legislation which agricultural chiefs have said will restore agriculture to an equal basis with industry and labor.

Acquiescence of the south to the equalization fee principle, it was held, will bring to the support of the measure enough southern votes to pass it.

The farm bureau in another resolution scored the administration's policy of reducing treasury surpluses to income taxpayers and urged the use of such funds for retirement of the national debt.

Muscle Shoals, the convention asserted, must be speedily disposed of to a company which will supply fertilizer in indorsement of the farmer.
The federation went on record as favoring the proposal of the American Cyanamid company and urged a farmer board to supervise the manufacture of fertilizer and its distribution.

The farm bureau's opposition to the proposed 20th amendment to the federal constitution, enabling child labor legislation, was reasserted after the resolutions committee had brought in no recommendation on it.

A school of cooperative marketing was urged in every agricultural college.

"The working people of the country," he said, "believe that we have reached that period in the economic life of our nation when industry can methodically change from the five and one half and six day work week to the five day work week."

He said that while many employers and others "not classified as being directly associated with labor," have capitulated to labor's argument, "other large employing interests" are opposing the change openly and vigorously.

Yet, he recalled, the eight hour day,
now generally established in industry,
met as determined opposition at the outset.

"I do not care what you say to
these students," Dr. Jacobs said. "The
chief point with me is that you have
been invited to speak at Oglethorpe.
It is the purpose of this university to
teach its students to think for themselves."

It was founded on the same
principles of free speech and free
thought that the United States was
founded on. I cannot sincerely believe
that the mind of any Oglethorpe student could be corrupted by any address or the expression of any views

EXPENSES OF U. S. FOR YEAR ARE SET AT FOUR BILLION

Attack on Program of President Is Started Early by Opposition,

BUDGET GREATER THAN LAST YEAR

Increases Due to Higher Pensions and Greater Cost of Veterans Bureau and Postal Service.

Washington, December 8.—(AP)—

With formal preliminaries of the new session out of the way, congressional leaders signalled today for a clear track in the hope of getting through an assortment of legislative proposals
before adjournment early in March.

Although the senate was in session only a few minutes, adjourning out of respect of the late Senator McKimley, of Illinois, the hour got down to business in earnest.

There President Coolidge's message
transmitting the budget was read, the democratic $335,000,000 tax reduction bill was shot into the hopper by Representative Garner, of Texas, and consideration was begun of a ply bill—"a smooth sailing
nearly one billion dollars
treasury and postoffice articles."

Reading in the senate of the president's budget message, which cost a $333,000,000 treasury surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30, and $200,000,000 for the next year, and reiterated by the executive's opposition to permanent tax reduction at this time was deferred until tomorrow.

The budget bureau recommended
total appropriations for the coming fiscal year of $4,014,571,124, or $10, 543,728 more than has been provided for this year. Reductions in the expenses of some branches of the government, including $30,000,000 in interest on the public debt, were more than offset by increases made necessary by higher civil and Spanish war pensions and mounting costs of operating the veterans bureau and postal service.

Tax Slash Hint.

In expressing opposition to any immediate slash in tax rates the president, in his message of transmittal renewed his suggestion that another year's test should be given the present
revenue law and the extent of present prosperity sounded before permanent levies are altered.

He reiterated the proposal made in his annual message yesterday that the wise course would be to apply the Norman's suggestion to a reduction of the public debt or return it to taxpayers.
He left determination of which should be done, to congress.

In formally offering his tax reduction program, Representative Garner lost little time in challenging the

Smaller Cotton Acreage Urged by H. G. Hastings, Georgia Association Head

Address of New President Is Summary of Conditions and an Appeal for Diversified Farming.

Smaller cotton acreage and diversified farming holds the key to the only safe road by which farming conditions of Georgia can be improved and individual farmers enabled to emerge from the present unfavorable conditions, according to H. G. Hastings in an address Wednesday at a meeting of the Georgia association.

The meeting was held at the Chamber of Commerce building at 10 o'clock and in addition to the address of Mr. Hastings, who was elected president to succeed John R. Slater, of Douglas, other officers were named and an advisory committee selected to further the program of the association.

Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, Henderson Hallman, to Hastings, and J. M. Patterson, Putney, Ga., to take the place of Mrs. George T. Betts, Ashburn, Ga. Other vice presidents are: P. H. Bozinger, Atlanta; J. E. Turner, Fitzgerald; W. C. Stokes, Jeffersonville, Ga.; and R. L. McKenney, Macon. There is one vice presidency vacancy to be filled by the executive committee, the position now held by P. M. Oliver, Savannah.

The present secretary is F. H. Ab-

the executive committee at an early date. The treasurer, R. O. Crocker, of Atlanta, was re-elected.

The past presidents, by resolution, adopted were elected honorary vice presidents. They are, with the exception of Mr. Hastings, John R. Slater, M. Hugh Westberry, C. K. C. Ausley and A. K. Sessoms. Mrs. George T. Betts, whose late husband was president of the association at the time of his death in 1923, was elected an honorary vice president.

Advisors Named.

The president was authorized to designate a group of outstanding Georgia business men to serve the association as an advisory committee, and he announced appointment of the following with other names to be added from time to time: H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of the Georgia Railway and Power company, chairman; J. E. Skaggs, president Southern Express company; Ben S. Read, president Southern Bell Telephone company; Colonel B. L. Buzz, J. E. Skaggs, president Georgia Growers' Cooperative association; J. K. Orr, president J. K. Orr Shoe company, and H. H. Tift.

The immediate government of the association is in the hands of an executive committee, members of which are: President H. G. Hastings; W. B. Fleming, Bainbridge, and W. J. O'Quinn, Waycross, together with vice presidents.

The meeting was featured by a comprehensive annual report of the secretary, and the address of President Hastings.

Must Not Forget Farmers.

While heartily endorsing the Forward Atlanta movement and pledging his support to the program, Mr. Hastings said:

"Under no circumstances, however, must our agricultural districts and their people be forgotten. They need development along safe, sane and sound lines or else our industries will have no markets, or at best unsatisfactory ones."

"Granting the truth of everything that has been said and as to Georgia's wonderful advantages for a variety of mechanical industries, the fact remains that the major part of Georgia is best fitted for agriculture, a widely diversified agriculture that under a properly organized agricultural and marketing system would bring untold wealth into Georgia to stay permanently and put our farm population on an entirely different plane, economic, educational and social."

In the course of his speech the new president urged smaller acreage as a means of "getting back."

"The only way out is fewer acres in cotton; two or three times as much per acre, which automatically lowers the cost per pound. In this way and in this way only can the cotton growing industry be saved to Georgia. Otherwise, cotton growing in Georgia will be largely wiped out within the next 12 or 15 years," he said.

HAPEVILLE ADOPTS FIREPROOF ROOF RULE

All new buildings in Hapeville must have fireproof roofs and on all buildings where more than 50 per cent of older roofs are being repaired fireproof materials must be substituted, according to an ordinance adopted by city council Tuesday night.

Another new ordinance passed at the meeting provides for a new schedule of license fees for business enterprises.

City council also voted to renew contract with the Georgia Railway and Power company for street lighting and power upon approval of the city attorney. A request for paving on a block on Elkin street was referred to the street committee for investigation.

Emile Schenck, Sidney B. Treadwell and Fred W. Patton have been elected members of the city council at the annual election held Tuesday.

FLOYD IS ELECTED COLLEGE PARK MAYOR

William J. Floyd was elected mayor of College Park for the next two years Monday in one of the most hotly contested elections ever held there. Floyd had only a slight majority over his opponent, C. C. Bowling.

MAJOR MCCOLLUM DIES ON THURSDAY

Major McCollum came to the Western and Atlantic railroad during the time it was leased to a group of Georgia officials of various railroads, headed by former Governor Joseph M. Brown. The state of Georgia in 1869 leased the Western and Atlantic to this group for a period of twenty years. During the life of this lease years, some of his most notable service in railroad building was rendered prior to his assumption of these duties. Before he became connected with the Western and Atlantic railroad, which is owned by the state of Georgia, Major McCollum served as chief engineer of the Alabama Great Southern railroad, which is now a division of the Southern railway.

Directed Construction.

In his capacity as engineer for the Alabama Great Southern Major McCollum helped build a large portion of that line from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Meridian, Miss. He directed the surveys in their work and also directed much of the actual construction work.

To Major McCollum belongs the honor of laying the foundation for the present city of Birmingham, Ala. When he was selecting the right of way and constructing the Alabama Great Southern he sought to obtain a location for a station for his new line at Elyton, Ala. At that time Elyton was the only settlement in the present Birmingham district. Because of delay on the part of citizens and officials of Elyton in granting the lands needed for the station Major McCollum decided to locate the new station six miles from Elyton. An old box car was used and this site, six miles north of Elyton, is now the heart of the city of Birmingham.

Was Superintendent.

Major McCollum came to the Western and Atlantic railroad during the time it was leased to a group of Georgia officials of various railroads, headed by former Governor Joseph M. Brown. The state of Georgia in 1869 leased the Western and Atlantic to this group for a period of twenty years. During the life of this lease

Major McCollum came to the road as superintendent and built the line up until it has become one of the best railroad properties in the south.

At the expiration of the lease to the group headed by Governor Brown the line was leased for a period of thirty years to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad. Major McCollum served as superintendent of the line during the entire life of this lease, which expired in 1919. The third lease of the road was for fifty years, negotiated in 1919 between the state and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis. During the life of this lease Major McCollum was retired on full pay with the title of honorary superintendent.

BANK STOCKHOLDERS TO RECEIVE $100,000

Approximately $100,000 in dividends will be paid stockholders of the Citizens & Southern bank and its subsidiary, the Citizens & Southern Co., December 22, officials of the company announced Wednesday.

This is the quarterly payment on the stock and $90,000 of this amount will be paid by the bank, it was stated. The Citizens & Southern Co. will pay $10,000. In both the bank and the company the dividend amounts to 3 per cent, which, it was announced, is a normal payment.

Business conditions during the past year have been unusually good, according to A. G. Maxwell, vice-president of the bank. "And the outlook for the next year is even better," he added.

"Taking the year as a whole our business has been very satisfactory," he said. "Although activity in agriculture has not been as great this year as in 1925, we find that deposits at the bank have been held high throughout the year. This condition indicates prosperity ahead, for if the people of the state hold their money it will reflect on the activity of business during the coming year."

REALTORS TO PICK OFFICERS TODAY

Albany, Ga., December 8.—(P)—Tomorrow afternoon will bring to a close the two-day convention of the Georgia Realtors' association, which convened here this morning. Election of officers and the selection of the city for the 1927 meeting is expected to be the principal part of the day's business.

Virtually every city in the state is represented at the convention now underway and the Albany real estate board has been complimented by the visitors on the arrangements that have been made that make it one of the best conventions the association has ever held.

The convention was called to order this morning by R. L. Cooper, Savannah, president of the association. After the invocation, delivered by Dr. Osgood F. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist church, addresses of welcome were made by Mayor E. H. Kalmon on behalf of the city, and D. L. Beattie, president of the Albany Real Estate board. George A. Mercer, Savannah, made the response and during his talk referred to the praise given to Albany by Charles H. Osborn, former governor of Michigan, who has a home within a few miles of Albany.

The feature of the days session was an address made by Robert J. Emison, representative of the National Real Estate association. Bayne Gibson, Atlanta, also addressed the delegates.

BAPTIST MISSION HEAD IS ARRESTED

Richmond, Va., December 8.—(A)—George N. Sanders, former treasurer of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, was arrested here this afternoon on a warrant charging the larceny of $92,000 from the board's funds.

The warrant was sworn out by Detective Sergeant Percy L. Tiller after a conference between Commonwealth Attorney Dave Salterfield and officials of the mission board, at which the latter acknowledged a shortage in Sanders' accounts. It charges:

"During six years last past, George N. Sanders did unlawfully and feloniously steal, take and carry away United States currency to the amount of $92,000, the money and property of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, a corporation existing under the laws of the state of Virginia."

Bail Is Sought.

Sanders was held at police station pending efforts to obtain bail.

Dr. George W. McDaniel, president of the convention, in a statement issued here yesterday said that Sanders had admitted to him a shortage in his accounts of the foreign mission board. Dr. McDaniel estimated the shortage at approximately $92,000.

Dr. McDaniel in announcing that accounts had disclosed the shortage said Sanders had tendered his resignation to the finance board and offered to make restitution to the limit of his resources.

The money represents the present indebtedness of the board, Dr. McDaniel said, and does not involve the convention in an additional loss. Sanders, who worked on a salary as an employee of the board, was bonded in the amount of $25,000 with a surety company.

Equities Turned Over.

"Approximately $35,000 of the shortage will be made up by the bond and certain properties which the former treasurer has made over to the board," Dr. McDaniel said. "There also are equities in life insurance policies which have been turned over to the board."

Dr. McDaniel issued a statement which, in part, follows:

"Financial and religious affairs rest upon confidence. The commercial structure is formed by trusting human beings. Now and then an unfortunate and regrettable affair, such as this, occurs. The danger is that it will cause some persons to lose confidence in all human kind. That would be the saddest calamity that could befall anyone."

"The fact is that at best the board will sustain a loss. Our people must not waver on account of this tragedy. God still reigns, and Christ's command to evangelize is still imperative. Southern Baptists will reaffirm their faith in God and in each other and carry on their work favorably and sacrificially."

POWER MERGER PLANS EXPLAINED

which this exchange will be made, together with the earnings of the respective stocks under the new plan were outlined by Mr. Arkwright in his statement as follows:

"At meetings of the stockholders of Georgia Railway and Electric company to be held on December 15, there will be submitted for consideration the agreement for the consolidation of these two companies and the Georgia Power company, Athens Railway and Electric company, Rome Railway and Light company and East Georgia Power company. The agreement has been approved unanimously and has been signed by each individual director of the Georgia Railway and Electric company, Georgia railway and Power company, and the other four companies entering into the consolidation. If it is approved by a majority of the stockholders of each of the companies, then the agreement becomes effective."

The new consolidated company will own all of the property and franchises of each of the companies entering into the consolidation agreement, and in addition will own the controlling interest in the utilities companies operating in and adjacent to Macon.

"The systems of all of the companies entering into the consolidation are interconnected. In order to meet the demands of the public served by these companies for additional public facilities, it is necessary for these companies to spend for enlargement of their systems in excess of ten million dollars per annum, of which more than three million dollars per annum must be spent on the properties of the Georgia Railway and Electric company. Unless these demands for additional service are complied with, these companies will fail to perform their public duty, they will hamper the development of the territory served by them, they will forfeit the good will of the public and the value of their properties will necessarily decrease."

Change Needed.

"Under the present arrangement, all of the properties are subject to various mortgages and all of the bonds which may be issued under these mortgages have been exhausted. This condition and other restrictions make it almost prohibitive the obtaining of the substantial sums of money which are necessary to meet the public demands for service. So it is in the interest of the public and in the interest of the stockholders of the various companies, it is essential that some new setup be made through the medium of a consolidation of the various properties, the calling of various issues of bonds and the provisions for issuing additional bonds and preferred stock to provide the capital needed to make the necessary extensions and expansions in order to properly serve the territory and preserve the value of the properties."

"The state legislature in 1909 passed an act providing for the consolidation of companies of this character. This act provides that in order to accomplish such consolidation it is necessary for the directors of all of the companies involved to enter into an agreement setting forth the terms of the consolidation. This agreement is then to be submitted to the stockholders of the companies and if ratified by a majority of the stockholders of each company the agreement thereupon becomes effective, except only as to such of the companies as may have been incorporated prior to 1909. The only one of the companies involved which falls under this exception is Georgia Railway and Power company. As to that company, the act of the legislature provides that in the event the consolidation agreement is ratified by a majority of the stockholders then any dissenting stockholder shall have 30 days thereafter within which to file his dissent. As to any stockholder dissenting, the act provides that the value of his stock shall then be fixed by arbitration and the value so fixed to be paid to him in cash. After this is done, then the consolidation becomes effective as to that company."

"The new consolidated company will issue 285,445 shares of $6 preferred stock. This stock is preferred as to dividends to the amount of $6 per share per annum and is preferred as to principal to the amount of $100 per share plus accrued and unpaid dividends. This stock is to be issued in exchange for the preferred and common stock of Georgia Railway and Electric company, first preferred stock of Georgia Railway and Power company, preferred stock of Athens Railway and Electric company, preferred stock of the East Georgia Power company, and a few outstanding shares of common stock of Rome Railway and Light company and Georgia Railway and Power company."

Basis of Exchange.

"The basis of exchange as to all of the stock, except that of Georgia Railway and Electric company, is in such proportion of the new shares of stock as will yield to the stockholder the same dividend he is now receiving on his old shares. As to the stockholders of Georgia Railway and Electric company, the exchange proposed is on the basis of one share of new $6 preferred stock for each one share of the outstanding 5 per cent stock of Georgia Railway and Electric company, and one and one-half shares of the new $6 preferred stock for each share of the 8 per cent common stock of Georgia Railway and Electric company. Under this exchange, these stockholders will receive $1 per annum more in dividends per share than they are now receiving."

"The new $6 preferred stock will, under present laws, be free from state, county and municipal taxation in Georgia when held by a resident of Georgia, and will be free from normal federal income tax. The earnings of the properties entering into the consolidation for the 12 months ending August 31, 1926, after deducting operating expenses, maintenance, taxes and bond interest, were equal to at least two and three-quarters times the dividend requirements of the new $6 preferred stock. The dividend on the $6 preferred stock will be charged on the properties and earnings of all of the companies entering into the consolidation, including Georgia Railway and Electric company, Georgia Railway and Power company, Georgia Power company, Athens Railway and Electric company, and Rome Railway and Light company."

Safe Investment.

"The new $6 preferred stock will be an absolutely safe, sound investment security. It is the intention of the new company to sell additional shares of this $6 preferred stock to its customers in the state of Georgia for the purpose of raising a portion of the new capital which will be needed from time to time for the acquisition and construction of new properties to meet the growing demands for utility service. The company will itself sell these additional shares of stock and it will have no hesitation in recommending the stock as an investment to anyone seeking a safe and sound security, yielding a reasonable rate of return."

"The proposed consolidation has met with the approval of the public at large in the state of Georgia, as it affords the vehicle for providing for a very large section of the state an adequate, dependable public utility service which would not be possible otherwise. It is believed that the consolidation agreement will be enthusiastically approved by the stockholders of the various companies at their meetings."

About the Service This Bank Renders You?

ONE of our oldest friends started us thinking the other day when he said:

"I like this bank. It is well rounded and complete. I can get every sort of banking service from it."

"It is conservatively run, without being old-fashioned. It is under government supervision. And all these points are important."

"But the biggest point of all to me—and I suspect it is the reason you've developed as you have—is that no matter what brings me in here, whether it be a trivial matter or the whole refinancing of my business, I can always get the interested and undivided attention of any and every executive of the bank."

Speaks on "Man or Monkey" Under Supreme Kingdom Auspices.

Rev. John Roach Straton, famous pastor of Calvary Baptist church in New York city, will lecture at 8 o'clock tonight at the city auditorium on the subject "Man or Monkey—Which?" This is Dr. Straton's famous anti-evolution lecture, which he has delivered in many parts of the country during his fight against the theory of evolution and its teaching in schools and colleges.

Dr. Straton, for many years known as one of the leading ministers of the Baptist denomination in this country, sprang into world renown about five years ago when he championed the cause of fundamentalism, against modernism, in the church. Since then he has carried the war of a literal belief in the Bible into all parts of the country.

He will speak tonight under the auspices of the Supreme Kingdom. There will be no charge for admission, it was announced, nor will there be any collection. Many groups from schools and colleges and others will attend in bodies, and special seats have been reserved for all ministers of evangelical churches in the Atlanta district, to whom a special invitation is extended.

Many fraternal orders have also indicated that they will be present in full force.

Dr. Straton will be the honor guest at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at a luncheon given at the Henry Grady hotel, when he will make a short talk on the issues of the day to the group of invited guests who will be present.

It is believed that the rate of reproduction of the war of a literal belief in the Bible into all parts of the country.

DEMOCRATS DEMAND GREAT TAX CUT

President's position. His bill has the approval of Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, spokesman of the minority in the senate on revenue questions, and of democratic leaders in both houses. It was referred to the ways and means committee, on which Garner is the ranking democrat. There it is expected to encounter the opposition of republicans, a number of whom, however, appear a bit lukewarm also to the president's recommendations.

Garner's Program. The estimated $335,000,000 reduction in taxes called for in the Garner program would be effected by a decrease in the corporation tax from 13.2 to 11 per cent and the repeal of automobile, amusement club dues and produce levies.

Today's session of the house lasted till mid-afternoon, when adjournment was taken out of respect to senator McKinley, who for years served as a representative. A committee was named to attend the funeral.

Selection of a senate funeral committee was announced at the brief session after a resolution of regret had been adopted. There was all the business transacted in the senate, although its elections committee gave to a subcommittee, headed by Senator Goff, republican, West Virginia, the task of investigating the reputed payment by Arthur R. Gould, Maine's new senator, of $100,000 to a Canadian official in connection with a railroad deal. The inquiry was directed yesterday by the senate on the motion of Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana.

Dry Cost 27 Millions. The appropriation bill which got before the house, provides among other things more than $27,000,000 for prohibition enforcement, about $12,000,000 for the prohibition unit and the balance to finance coast guard warfare on rum runners.

Three democratic members of the appropriations committee, Representatives Gallivan, of Massachusetts, and Cullen and Griffin, of New York, declined to subscribe to the prohibition fund provisions, while two others—Tinkham, of Massachusetts, and Vane, of Pennsylvania, both republicans, reserved the right to oppose some of the features.

The bill carries the amount recommended by the budget for prohibition enforcement, which the president said in his message should have whatever funds may be necessary to vindicate the law.

Touching on appropriations for the national defense, the president urged congress to postpone construction of three light cruisers authorized at the last session. This, he said, should be done in view of negotiations now in progress looking to further reduction of armaments.

Failure of budget bureau to include provision for the cruisers in next year's estimates, however, aroused some members of the house, naval committee, and Secretary Wilson was called into conference for an explanation. The naval secretary said the budget bureau had ignored his request that the necessary appropriation be recommended.

COOLIDGE PRESENTS BUDGET FOR 1921

Washington, December 8.—(AP.)—The government's budget for the next fiscal year, calling for appropriation of $4,014,671,124, or $16,543,728 more than is allotted for the current year, was submitted to congress today by President Coolidge.

The Civil and Spanish war pension increases voted last session, together with increases in the cost of operating the postal service and the veterans bureau, account principally for the higher budget, more than offsetting heavy reductions in expenses of other branches of the government. The largest of these reductions—$30,000,000—was the interest on the public debt.

The 1921 fiscal year outlay provides for inauguration of five-year aviation programs in the army and navy, with a total of $57,400,000 for national defense; and the maintenance of prohibition enforcement at a total cost of nearly $30,000,000.

Mr. Coolidge asked congress to postpone construction of the remaining three of the eight light cruisers which were to have been started before next July in view of this country's position in negotiations to broaden our existing treaties with the great powers which deal with the elimination of competition in naval armaments.

He also omitted all provision for the construction of two rigid airships which congress authorized to be built at a cost of $8,000,000 prior to July 1, 1920. He asked that time be given to experiment with the all-metal airship now being constructed at a cost of $300,000.

Of the $73,477,380 proposed for aviation in the army and navy, $20,600,000 is for new planes and $2,400,000 for construction of barracks and quarters. The total appropriations of $690,537,612 for the war and navy departments makes provisions for military and naval strength of 610,000 men, including reserves. The navy budget including $4,000,000 carried over from last year, is $317,815,500, or $9,246,475 less than this year, and the war department estimate is $368,722,142, or $11,251,340 more than for this year.

"This is a very considerable amount to spend for protection in time of peace," said the president. "No threatening cloud at the present time darkens the sky. Our intent and attitude is one of peace and friendly regard toward all nations and peoples. This, however, is not sufficient warrant to neglect our defense and default on necessary precautions."

Regarding prohibition enforcement, he also gave assurance that "whatever is necessary to put into effect the expressed will of the people as written into the eighteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States and the will of congress as expressed in the Volstead act will be done."

"Whatever funds may be necessary to vindicate the law and secure compliance with all its provisions should be provided," he added. "The constitutional duties of the president and the congress make any other course indefensible."

While proposing expenditure of the $75,000,000 authorized by congress for road construction, Mr. Coolidge renewed his recommendation that the federal government cut down this appropriation hereafter, confining its activities to construction only of primary or interstate highways and leaving to states the development of secondary routes.

The president also asked congress to give early consideration to a permanent merchant marine policy and to the disposition of alien property and settlement of American and German war claims, a problem now holding the attention of the house ways and means committee.

Veterans Bureau.

The increase of $12,000,000 for the veterans bureau, making the total for this office $475,400,000 for the next year, involves principally an increase for military and naval compensation. Counting pensions and compensation to the veterans of all wars, the total carried in the budget for veterans' relief is $705,000,000.

Aside from the $30,000,000 reduction in interest on the public debt, the largest single decrease in the new budget is a drop of $9,246,475 in the allotment for the navy. The program provides for the decommissioning of certain old ships, affording a considerable saving in fuel and maintenance, and a curtailment of more than $5,000,000 in the amount to be spent for major alteration of vessels.

The treasury department figures show a decrease of $6,169,012 scattered generally among the manifold activities over which the department has supervision. The budget bureau itself sets an example by clipping off $7,000 from its annual expenses. There is a decrease of $370,000 in the amount set aside for collecting internal revenue; a decrease of $600,000 for refunds of excessive customs duties; and a decrease of $514,810 for the bureau of engraving and printing.

The coast guard, however, receives increases totaling more than $2,500,000 for new vessels and for general expenses. The treasury estimate does not include the $20,000,000 which the administration expects to spend during the year for public buildings throughout the country.

Decreased Appropriations. Decreases also are shown in the totals for the state and labor departments, but they are due to the fact that last year special appropriations were made for both of these departments—$5,000,000 to the state department for the final payment under the Colombian treaty, and $1,000,000 to the labor department for maternity and infancy welfare work. Neither of these items will be repeated in the 1921 budget.

The largest increases are $32,755-

278 for the interior department to cover the higher pension payments authorized last session; $19,163,812 for the postoffice department, to pay additional salaries and provide for additional facilities to handle the increased volume of mail; and $11,251,340 for the war department, the bulk of which will be spent on aviation and new barracks. The interior department appropriation also includes a $5,000,000 increase for reclamation and the war department allotment includes $66,347,000, about the same as last year, for river and harbor work.

The agriculture department receives an increase of $4,851,997, of which $2,500,000 goes to meet the increasing cost of the continuing program of forest road construction. The amount set aside for endowment of agricultural experiment stations under the Purnell act is increased $480,000, of which $10,000 goes to each state. The allotment for eradication of tuberculosis in animals is increased from $4,653,000 to $5,853,000, and there is an increase from $710,000 to $1,000,000 for cooperation with the states in forest fire protection under the Clarke-McNary act.

A $4,007,583 increase for the department of commerce is largely devoted to the work of promoting commercial aviation under the new law. The allotment for air navigation facilities jumps from $300,000 for the current year to $3,219,500 for next year. The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, census, standards, and fisheries; the patent office, and the lighthouse service also receive smaller increases.

FUND OF $10,000 VOTED BY BAPTISTS

Valdosta, Ga., December 8.—(AP)—Taking up problems of its colleges and secondary schools at the afternoon session of its annual meeting today, the Georgia State Baptist convention authorized a special fund of $10,000 to be used for the benefit of millennial students at Mercer university. The fund was voted after prolonged discussion, but detailed arrangements concerning it were left to the executive committee. Permission was granted Mercer university, Beeson Tift College for Women and Shorter college to raise separate endowment funds from alumni and others. This was proposed in a joint resolution submitted by the three colleges, which the convention adopted. Discussion of other matters affecting the colleges and secondary schools prolonged the afternoon session well beyond the hour set for adjournment. It was not until late in the day that the convention faced the task of sifting through numbers of resolutions and proposed amendments to its constitution. Delegates expressed the belief that one of the outstanding questions before the assembly—a proposal to limit the terms of executive committee members—was certain of passage. Early this evening, it had not been determined whether a suggested resolution condemning the teaching of the theory of evolution would be presented.

DRY FORCES ASK LIQUOR SPY CASH

Washington, December 8.—(AP)—New fuel for the wet and dry fight was presented to congress today in the enforcement section of the treasury appropriation bill, which incorporated a virtual request for congressional sanction of the employment of "under-cover" prohibition agents.

Containing the substance for renewal of a bitterly contested phase of the prohibition conflict, the question which congress must decide is whether the fund from which advances are made to secret operatives will be increased from $250,000 to $300,000. Having survived heated attack in committee hearings, as disclosed in transcripts of testimony made public today, the issue was placed before the house at the special request of Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews, enforcement chief, and with the support of the appropriations committee. The only voice raised against the provision in the subcommittee which heard General Andrews' testimony was that of an ardent wet, Representative Gallivan, democrat, Massachusetts.

A Record Breaking Year of Telephone Expansion

DECEMBER will mark the completion of the largest telephone construction program ever undertaken in the South.

New telephone buildings, additional central office equipment, vast quantities of aerial and underground cable and hundreds of miles of long distance circuits have been installed to keep pace with the growth of the South.

Much of this work has been unseen and unknown to telephone users, but the service has continued without interruption during its progress.

Telephone service, as a whole, is now better and more valuable than ever before.

It is interesting to know that the largest part of this expansion cost, which totals practically $35,000,000, was paid for from new capital—provided by investors who expect a reasonable return on their money.

You see, they, too, believe in the South.

This State has enjoyed a substantial share of this investment, and the telephone workers share your pride in this material progress. They have been greatly encouraged by your interest and co-operation.

Convict Finds White Baby Boy Left in Field

Quitman, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—A white baby boy, apparently about nine hours old, was found in a field of the county farm this morning by a convict where it had been exposed to the cold but was still living. The convict found the child partly covered with hay. It was in a basket with its head and limbs protruding and its body covered with a piece of sheet and a little hay or dry grass on top. The man saw the baby's hand and thought it was a doll belonging to the warden's children and was startled when the baby screamed as he took hold of its hand. The child was removed to the warden's house and a physician summoned and proper care given it. The child was healthy and normal but in a serious condition because of exposure for hours to the cold. The county doctor was doubtful whether it could survive. Inquiry during the day pointed to a young woman in the neighborhood as the mother and to one of the old women at the farm as having placed the child in the field. The father of the child was said to have gone to Florida.

Award of All Cuban Reserve Bank Business To Atlanta Will Be Material Aid To City

Increase of $48,000,000 in Lending Power To Result From Victory Over Boston.

Capacity of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank to lend funds will be increased by approximately $48,000,000 through action of the federal reserve board Wednesday in awarding the Atlanta bank full jurisdiction over all federal reserve business in Cuba hitherto shared by the Boston Federal Reserve bank, according to a statement made public by officials of the local bank Wednesday.

Through discontinuance of the Boston bank's share of jurisdiction in Cuban business, cable transfers heretofore handled by the Boston bank will be handled through Atlanta and all clearings of the Cuban banks will be handled through this bank. Under the joint control plan, the Atlanta bank furnished all the currency for Cuba except one dollar notes and silver coinage. The total Cuban circulation is estimated at $80,000,000.

Jurisdiction of the two Cuban federal reserve bank agencies, long under dispute between Atlanta and Boston, settled in favor of Atlanta, will result in discontinuance of the Boston branch bank in Cuba and the consolidation of the two reserve branch banks there under control of Atlanta. The settlement was reached Wednesday following a meeting Tuesday in Washington of the federal reserve board.

Officials of the Atlanta Reserve bank Wednesday confirmed advice from Washington that a decision to this effect had been reached by the federal reserve board at a meeting with banks from all over the sixth federal reserve districts. The consolidation becomes effective January 1, unless dictation of the two agencies in Cuba originally was under control of Boston.

Action of the reserve board in favor of Atlanta followed a hearing on November 11, when leading financiers of the south appeared before the board in Washington with a request for sole administration of Cuban agencies through Atlanta, with close proximity of the Atlanta office to Cuba as the chief reason for the change.

The Cuban agency was created in September, 1923, when the joint control became effective. Under the joint control, half of the clearings passed through Boston, and the northern bank hand charge money transfers and other administrative details.

Increased lending power of the Atlanta reserve bank will aid greatly in times of financial stress such as "see the south and the rest of the country in 1929," it is pointed out. The Atlanta reserve bank a few months ago averted a serious financial crisis in Cuba by rushing $42,000,000 in currency to the island to halt a run on a number of Cuban member banks, assisting in eliminating a dangerous financial system.

CLOUDY WEATHER, PROBABLE RAINS, PREDICTED TODAY

Cloudy skies with a tendency toward rain will mark continuation of mild temperatures today in Atlanta and vicinity, according to the forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist.

The lowest point reached by the mercury Tuesday was 42 degrees, while during the day 61 degrees was reached. The temperature range will be about the same, Mr. von Herrmann stated.

Novel Xmas Contest Will Be Sponsored By Sears - Roebuck

Georgia housewives have an opportunity to spread Christmas cheer among hundreds of boys and girls in state orphanages and training schools and at the same time compete for 16 cash prizes, totalling $100, for the best Christmas candies and fruit cakes submitted in a contest being sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

The foundation will deliver all the candies and cakes, after they have been judged, to boys and girls in the institutions where Christmas enjoyment is dependent upon the generosity of Georgia citizens. Each cake and candy box will bear the name of the contestant by whom it was submitted. The state department of public welfare and other agencies will cooperate in selecting the homes and schools where the Yuletide treats will be of greatest benefit.

Prizes will be awarded by the foundation in each of the two classes of the contest, as follows: First award, $25; second, $15; third, $5, and five prizes of one dollar each. A committee of home economics specialists will judge the entries and determine the winners of the contest.

Contestants will observe the following rules: All entries must be received on or before Monday, December 20.

The contest is open to anyone except employees of Sears-Roebuck and Company.

Contestants may submit one entry in each class. Each Christmas candy and fruit cake entry must weigh not less than one pound nor more than three pounds. Each candy entry must contain three kinds of candy.

Entries should be carefully wrapped in waxed paper, packed in a strong cardboard or tin box, and mailed to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, Atlanta.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by great medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BUILDING LOAN MOVE SUCCEEDING

With plans going forward for organization of nine new building and loan associations in as many Georgia cities and with expressions of approval and support pouring into league headquarters from bankers and business men throughout Georgia, the Georgia Building and Loan League's educational campaign Thursday seemed assured of sensational success.

The educational campaign launched at a state league meeting November 18 is to reach a climax during the week of December 13 to 18, which has been designated as Georgia building and loan week. During that week newspaper stories, newspaper advertising, public speeches, civic club meetings and all other available mediums will be used to broadcast throughout Georgia the benefits to be obtained through building and loan development in Georgia. The campaign is being adequately financed by contributions from various building and loan associations throughout the state and from business men and bankers from Atlanta and other towns who believe the building and loan movement is the key to the ultimate development of Georgia's resources.

Georgia W. West, president of the Georgia Building and Loan League, has declared that "the spirit of the men who are sponsoring the campaign is the finest of any civic movement with which I have been connected. The league asked at the outset a fund of $1,000 with which to finance the educational campaign at the original meeting. This fund was over-subscribed and since the meeting additional contributions have been made without solicitation, carrying the fund substantially over the amount originally asked."

Cities in which new building and loan associations are to be started are:

a result of the campaign are Newnan, LaGrange, Summerville, Vidalia, Rossville, Cordele, Bainbridge, Gainesville and Carrollton.

Expressions of endorsement have come from leaders of all walks of life throughout the state.

Among prominent Georgia business men who have expressed hearty endorsement of the building and loan movement are W. R. C. Smith, former president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; J. M. Graham, banker of Rome; F. A. Wilson-Lawrence, publisher of the Atlanta Georgian; W. B. Spauld, vice president of the Citizens and Southern bank; E. R. Black, president of the Atlanta Trust company; T. C. Erwin, vice president of the Citizens and Southern bank; Milton S. Bell, cashier of the Federal Reserve bank; Ward Wight, former president of the Atlanta Real Estate Board; Iran E. Allen, head of the Forward Atlanta advertising committee; S. G. McLendon, secretary of state and chairman of the Georgia securities commission, and Arthur Brooks, governor-elect of the Georgia Kiwanis club.

In their statements these business men pointed out the advantages that will come to the state through organization of building and loan associations, which they say would encourage home-building, home-ownership and would stimulate general business conditions.

VISITING ARCHITECTS PLAY PROGRAM TODAY

The directors of the American Institute of Architects, concluding a two-day business session in Atlanta with a dinner at the Biltmore hotel Wednesday night, will today be entertained by the Georgia chapter of the institute.

The visitors will motor to Stone Mountain this morning for an inspection of the Confederate memorial. Returning to the East Lake Golf Club for luncheon, they will make an afternoon call at Georgia Tech and conclude the day with a formal dinner at the Piedmont Driving Club.

The visiting architects, who have their headquarters in Washington, D. C., are making a tour of the southeast, inspecting both the modern industrial buildings here and the other styles of architecture, represented by colonial buildings and ante-bellum mansions.

Coming to Atlanta by way of South Carolina and Savannah, the institute members will leave Thursday night for Birmingham to stop over there a few days before returning to Washington.

John Dillon of Morgan and Dillon, architects, is chairman of the local committee on arrangements.

Rev. Huff Preaches On "Christ-Possessed Life" at Revival

An analysis of the "Christ-Possessed Life" was given by the Rev. Huff at the Central Baptist church revival meeting last night following a song service led by the Rev. Luke Rader, pastor of the church.

The evangelist dealt with the promise of Jesus, the existence of the "Christ-Possessed Life" and the practical experience of religion.

"God wants to plant us on the stormy hills of the twentieth century, rooted like the giant oak and grounded like the skyscraper in belief in Him," the evangelist declared. He pointed out that the "Christ-Possessed Life" is the climax of Christian experience and that it reveals the "marvellous redemptive privileges of Christianity."

Special announcement was made by Rev. Mr. Rader of the Bible study classes being held each morning at the church during the revival campaign, which is scheduled to close Sunday night.

Unidentified Pair, Accident Victims, Laid to Last Rest

Somewhere tonight two mothers' prayers will be made for the safety of their boys. But their prayers will be of no avail for the sons were buried Wednesday in Greenwood cemetery, mangled victims of the onrushing wheels of a locomotive.

Perhaps even now the mothers of the two boys, who were unknown here, are watching eagerly for their return. The two youths, both scarcely over 20, were killed in a railroad accident Tuesday night of last week, near Bolton.

None case death was instantaneous and in the second the boy never regained consciousness. He was brought to an Atlanta hospital where every attention was given him, but he died within an hour. No marks of identification was on either body and railroad officials have been unable to tell exactly how they came to meet death.

Every Christian rite was observed in the funeral service and burial, for the Western and Atlantic railroad, to whose tracks the bodies were found, gave freely for a Christian burial. And Harry G. Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

The pointer for today is: With a semi-two-suiter, bid the higher-valued first if the two suits are of equal strength.

Yesterday two dealer's hands were given, the question being how these hands should be bid:

1. Spade: Ace-king-x-x-x. Heart: Ace-king-x-x-x. Diamond: x-x. Club: x-x.

2. Spade: Ace-king-x-x-x. Heart: Ace-king-x-x-x. Diamond: x-x. Club: x-x.

In No. 1, following the pointer given on Monday, a spade should be bid first; the suits being of equal length and strength, the higher-valued should be given the preference.

In No. 2, a doubtful question arises. This hand is not a two-suiter (i.e., five cards in each of two suits), but a semi-two-suiter (i.e., five cards in one suit and four in the other); and while the two suits are of equal strength, the higher-valued is composed of only four cards, the lower-valued of five. In that case it is important to show both major suits, and it may be most advantageous to name the four-carder while it can be named cheaply. If possible the hearts should be shown later even if the partner has helped the spade. For example, if South (the holder of the above hand) bid one spade, West two of a minor, North two spades, East pass; South should then bid three hearts to show that he has only four spades and that he has five hearts. After the same first round bidding, if South held five spades he should pass on the second round. The rule may be stated as follows: When a four-card suit has been bid originally, and has been raised by the partner after a bid by the intervening adversary (but not after a pass by the adversary and a jump by the partner), the original bidder should overall partner's bid with a strong five-card suit, provided his hand justifies another raise. Such bidding would show the partner that the first suit is a four-carder and the second a five-carder; it would give him a choice between the two, with accurate information concerning their own hand.

What would you bid as dealer with the following hands:

1. Spade: Ace-king-x-x-x. Heart: Ace-king-queen-x-x. Diamond: x-x. Club: x-x.

2. Spade: Ace-king-x-x. Heart: Ace-king-queen-x-x. Diamond: x-x. Club: x-x.

3. Spade: Ace-king-x-x. Heart: x-x. Diamond: Ace-king-queen-x-x. Club: x-x.

private services and every heart in the chapel was touched.

Music for the funeral was furnished by Miss Louise Dymon, George Dymon, Jr., James W. Smith and Frank Tolbert. Miss Frances Swords was one of the most active workers in arranging the funeral.

Sympathy for the two unfortunate young men was evident Wednesday morning at the chapel, for all standing seats were taken even in the corridors. Then a slow procession wended its way to Greenwood cemetery, where two lots were bought for their last resting place. A final prayer was offered and the crowd left the grounds.

Two markers were left at the head of each newly-cut grave and the fresh earth was piled high with fragrant flowers.

On one marker was the name "Smith" and on the other the name "Brown." In order to avoid having the young men buried unnamed, those who arranged the funeral gave these names and filed away a complete description of both. If ever a friend, relative or parent comes to claim the bodies the identification can be made.

CHECK UNDER $1 HELD QUITE LEGAL BY U. S. BUREAU

Washington, December 8.—An old legend that it is illegal to write a check for less than $1 has disappeared, causing the department of justice to reassure the public. There is an old law forbidding use of checks for less than $1 as currency but that applied to an abandoned banking custom. The department stated that there is no law against the ordinary bank check for less than $1.

R. T. Lively, of 1177 Lucile avenue, reported to police Wednesday night that his pocket, containing $25, was picked on a crowded street car in front of the city hall just after he had left his office late in the afternoon. Mr. Lively told police that he missed his money soon after he got on the car.

Miss Mae Fuller, 247 Woodward avenue, reported to police early Wednesday night that her purse, containing $20, valuable papers and a bunch of keys, was snatched by a negro man as she was walking along Whitehall street near Trinity avenue early Wednesday night. The negro disappeared in the darkness, Miss Fuller told police.

TRADES BODY BACKS WAR ON LOAN SHARKS

Naming a special committee to investigate the situation in Atlanta with regard to the operations of loan sharks and the practice of usurious money lending, the Atlanta Federation of Trades at its regular meeting Wednesday night voted to cooperate with the Atlanta Legal Aid society, which has engaged in a determined crusade against loan sharkery and is planning to secure the enactment of restrictive legislation at the next session of the general assembly.

J. L. R. Boyd, general counsel for the society, outlined the purpose and accomplishments of the organization, declaring that out of 160 loan sharks operating here a year ago, only 60 are now doing business and most of these on a greatly reduced basis of interest charges.

Another feature of the meeting was the appearance of Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead, vice president of the National Council for the Prevention of War, who spoke in support of the League of Nations, advocating the entrance of the United States, Mrs. Mead, after speaking to the students of Agnes Scott college a few days ago because of protests by the American Legion, which asserted that racial organizations in the National Council for the Prevention of War have gone on record as advocating highly radical tactics.

Mrs. Mead discussed the advisability of settling international disputes by arbitration and the prevention of war by the exercise of police power designated by nations through international cooperation.

BURGLARS ACTIVE WITH CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS NEARING

Burglars have renewed their annual holiday activities. During the night Tuesday and Wednesday many Atlantans reported to police that they had lost various articles.

After entering the Second Baptist church at West Mitchell and Washington streets, burglars helped themselves to an expensive vacuum cleaner, police were told.

C. Wilson, of 871 Washington street, reported that his home was burglarized late Tuesday night and $21 in money and an expensive watch stolen.

Numerous persons reported to police that overcoats, small traveling bags and other articles had been stolen from automobiles parked in various sections of the city Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning.

Little Hope Held FOR JUSTICE GARY

Pneumonia has set in during the last 24 hours to complicate the conditions of Justice Eugene B. Gary, of the South Carolina supreme court, who was brought to a local hospital several days ago critically ill from a nervous breakdown. Attending physicians held little hope for his recovery, announcing Wednesday night that "everything is against him."

SNEAK THIEVES GET MONEY FROM TWO

R. T. Lively, of 1177 Lucile avenue, reported to police Wednesday night that his pocket, containing $25, was picked on a crowded street car in front of the city hall just after he had left his office late in the afternoon. Mr. Lively told police that he missed his money soon after he got on the car.

Miss Mae Fuller, 247 Woodward avenue, reported to police early Wednesday night that her purse, containing $20, valuable papers and a bunch of keys, was snatched by a negro man as she was walking along Whitehall street near Trinity avenue early Wednesday night. The negro disappeared in the darkness, Miss Fuller told police.

And here's a little tip: Your own subscription—provided it meets with the conditions set forth in the advertisement—will count just as heavily as any other. Enter it, then ask two neighbors or friends or relatives to help, and "The Constitution Express" is yours.

These magnificent roller coasters are the most handsomely and sturdily constructed wagons of their kind ever seen in Atlanta. Made of tough, seasoned wood, they are so reinforced with steel braces that it's practically impossible to wear them out or break them down. Many of them have been in service in Atlanta and throughout Georgia for a year, and a great many others given away by this paper two years ago are just as good as new after being subjected to the roughest treatment and exposure.

Features that will delight the youngsters are heavy balloon tires, with the roller-hearings that make them swift and sure. Brightly painted, they make ideal, beautiful gifts for the growing boy or girl; gifts you couldn't beat if you sought for a month.

The advertisement in this issue will tell you all about the wonders of the offer. Turn to it now and get busy. Success will be yours.

SOVIET'S WOMAN ENVOY TO MEXICO GREETED WARMLY

Mexico City, December 8.—Shouting "Viva Russia!" and waving red banners, hundreds of Mexican communists gave Madame Alexandra Kollantay a tumultuous welcome when she arrived today as soviet Russia's envoy to Mexico.

A representative of the foreign minister welcomed her but he was unaccompanied by the envoys of other powers.

Later a crowd of 100 men, women and boys gathered in front of the Russian legation hoping that Madame Kollantay would appear there. She did not call at her future office, however.

Choice Proctor Frank Wins Open Derby at Waynesboro

Jane of Wingfoot, Guided by Bobby Bevan, Is Second

First Series and Part of Second in Members All-age Stake Is Run Following Completion of the Open Derby. Pritchette Again Handles Winner.

Waynesboro, Ga., December 8.—(Special).—Mack Pritchette, the lanky young man from out Texas way, is again ruler of the handier roost in Waynesboro today. The unassuming young dog trainer has again enriched himself by several hundred dollars and much credit by piloting another canine thoroughbred to victory in the open derby.

Choice Proctor Frank, a dog from the kennels of C. H. Cannon in Tulsa, Oklahoma, raced to victory today in the second series race under the guiding whistle and voice of Pritchette. It was a great race and though the weather made the finding of birds particularly hard, the great speed and form of the dogs furnished a kick for the gallery.

Bobby Bevan, a quiet, handsome chap, handled Jane of Wingfoot, which placed second in the money. The lemon and white lady is rightly named too. She has winged feet and uses them to bring the gallery to attention. It was her point on a covey Tuesday which furnished the greatest thrill of the day for the spectators.

C. L. Pritchett, of St. Matthews, South Carolina, directed Ferris Lady Binkins, his own dog, to third place money in the second series races. The little bunch of royalty exhibited nearly as much form in the field as the first and second place dogs, but she failed to find birds and that gave the higher places to the others who both found coveys.

All-Age Begun. The finish of the open derby put an end to the stakes in which but members can enter dogs and the balance of the day was taken in running off the first series and part of the second race of the members all-age. Invader, owned by John K. Ottley, and Short Change, owned by Scott Hudson, were ordered back for second series in members all-age stake, Thursday morning.

This race was particularly interesting because the work of every entry must be directed by a member. It is not necessary that the owner of the dog do the handling but some member of the association must act. This bars the professional handlers from the field and gives the members an opportunity to demonstrate their worth as handlers of dogs as well as owners.

It was truly a fascinating sight to see "Doc" Wilder and Scott Hudson doing the cowboy riding and rodeo yelping which is necessary to the handling of field trial dogs. These two men, are both officers of the field trial association and ordinarily very prepossessing men. But when they step out in front of the gallery and ride like fury to direct the efforts of two canine wonders they remind one of two youths just out of school for summer vacation on the way to the old swimming hole for the first plunge of the year.

Influx Continues. The influx of visitors still continues and among the new arrivals on Wednesday were John K. Ottley, dog owner and sportsman, of Atlanta; Walter Andrews, Tom Daniel and Hal Hentz, all prominent sportsmen, of Atlanta.

The arrival of Tyrus Raymond Cobb is still delayed by the illness of the famous ball player and all-around sportsman, but he is expected to make his appearance before the stakes are concluded on Friday.

The ability of members of the field trial association to handle dogs was clearly demonstrated today in the performance of Dr. E. M. Wilder, of Augusta, who was handling John K. Ottley's invader.

The gallery had ridden through several braces without the excitement of a "find" when the magic call of "point" came from a sparsely wooded knoll a few hundred yards ahead of the horses. The usual stampede took place and the riders arrived at the scene to see Dr. Wilder beating the grass ahead of Invader, who was

GEORGIA CAGE YEAR BEGINS ON SATURDAY

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

Athens, Ga., December 8.—Georgia's Bulldog cage year begins Saturday night, opposing the Southern Bell quintet. Only light scrimmages will augment the preparation of the Red and Black before the initial game of the season. The Southern Bell quintet is expected to prove a worthy opponent for the Bulldogs in this game, boasting a strong quintet. The game Saturday night is the first of a trio of games to be played by Coach Stegman's charges before the Christmas holidays, which will serve to determine the strength of this year's cage team. The following is expected to be the opening lineup: George Keen and Jimmie Harris, forwards; "Babe" Borcea, center, and Captain Walter Forbes and Hoyt Turner, guards.

In this five, Harris is the only new-comer, having been graduated from the freshman team of last season, where he starred. Captain Forbes only made his appearance Monday, following football activities, but he is in good condition and will round into old-time form quickly.

Various other teams have opposed the first team in scrimmages in the past few days, and Coach Stegman is expected to use quite a number of the cage aspirants in the opening game. Hollis Morris and Mahlon Courts are forwards; "Slim" Drew, center, and Hoke Smith and Robert Fowler at guards, opposed the first team in practice today, lasting around one-half hour.

Saturday week Fort McPherson will be played here and the game ends before the holiday season when the Atlanta "Y" appears here December 23. The schedule will be resumed January 5 and from then until the conference tourney there will be no letup.

'Y' BASKETMEN PLAY SOLDIERS ON SATURDAY

The Central Y varsity will play its second basketball game of the season against the soldier outfit next Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. on Luckie street.

The Y. M. C. A. team won its first game of the season against the speedy Pop team last Saturday. They displayed a smooth-working machine which should cause no little worry to most any opponent they meet this season. The fort has some veteran basketball stars and the soldiers are expected to give the "Y" outfit a tussle.

The Y. M. C. A. defensive play is the best feature of their work so far this season. The offense has been disappointing, occasional clamorous form, but it is not as perfect as the defense.

Charley Baunstead has been showing up well in the forward line and has proven to be a good running mate of the veteran Wilkinson. In the game against the Pop team one of the outstanding new players was Willie O'Connor, who has the uncanny ability to outwit the opposing offense. Nichols and Adeock seem to have a partnership on the center position. Each plays a different game and each fits in well with the rest of the team. The playing of Adeock compared with his playing in previous years is one of the surprises of the season. Pinkie Bynum is recovering from an injured foot, but it is hoped that he will be able to play Saturday night. With Bynum and O'Connor as guards the "Y" team is well fixed on defense. The coach has been unable to pick a first five, but any combination of the ten men on the squad have been giving a good account of themselves.

TECH AIRMEN AND ORDNANCE ELEEVENS TIE

BY BILL CRASSWELL.

A gridiron clash between the Tech air service corps and the ordnance corps ended in a 6-6 tie Wednesday afternoon on Grant field. The closing of the Tech varsity football season does not necessarily mean the termination of this popular sport at Tech, as much interest will be centered in football games, which started Saturday with a game between the signal corps and the navy, and will continue through January.

The air service took the initiative with a series of forward passes with remarkable success. At first the ordnance was slightly stunned but then soon awakened to the situation and halted the attack of the aviators until about the close of the first quarter, when Hood broke away for a 50-yard run around left end and a touchdown. Conley failed at goal and here the first period ended.

The playing of the two teams was about evenly matched during the early part of the second quarter, the ball remaining very near the center.

Monroe A-M., Cadets To Play at Riverside

BY BEN COTHMAN. Monroe A. & M. and the Riverside Cadets will clash Friday afternoon at Gainesville for the 1926 title of the G. I. A. A. It was announced by H. J. Stegman, arbiter of the association, Wednesday.

Officials of the two schools, who were selected by Mr. Stegman as the outstanding teams in any of the scrimmages, Red Barron, the Aggie coach, announces that Tom will be in shape for the battle Friday, however. The Riverside team is working out daily and the Cadet mentor announces that his men are in good shape for the fray.

Officials for the game have been selected, and Bill White, of Georgia, will referee; John Staton, of Tech, will act as umpire, and Don Miller, of Notre Dame, has been selected as head linesman.

John Contos Backing Daviscourt in Match

Rough Richard Daviscourt, who because of his rough tactics has had few supporters in his matches at the city auditorium, at last has the support of Promoter John Contos. Daviscourt will meet Joe Stecher, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, here December 15, and Contos for one believes that Daviscourt has an excellent chance of winning.

Early in the fall Contos was not such an admirer of Daviscourt and frequently declared that he would be glad to see somebody throw Rough Richard. But James Leonard, Pete Sauer, Jim Browning, Oreste Vadalini and all the rest failed, despite trying their hardest and now Contos is taking sides with Daviscourt.

Contos rarely if ever comments at great length but yesterday he dropped into The Constitution office and broke his silence to say a few words in behalf of Daviscourt. Contos said:

"Have Wrong Idea. The wrestling fans of Atlanta should not get the idea that Joe Stecher is unbeatable simply because he is world's champion. There have been others before him and there will be others after he has relinquished the crown."

"The first reason why Stecher is not immune to defeat is that he is not a human being like any other athlete and any man who enters the ring with that thought in mind is on an equal basis with him from the start. Also that thought carries with it the confidence and courage which is required to put up a winning battle."

"Secondly, Stecher has numerous weak points, his small neck being one of them. A vicious headlock such as one Daviscourt possesses will be liable to prove his downfall. Stecher's small arms do not carry with them the strength which might make a double wristlock, or hammerlock effective."

"Third, Stecher is a very modest fellow, the type of athlete who does not take kindly to the rough and ready grapples such as Daviscourt and Dick has always maintained that the man who bests Stecher will be the rough and hard-boiled type."

"It is a positive fact that Rough Richard does not fear any man. He has proven that in his numerous victories here and Dick gets the chance to prove his theory here on December 15 at the auditorium. He expects to take the crown away from Stecher and take it to his home in Los Angeles and hang it on the Christmas tree for his family to admire."

Wycoff's Newark Bears Arrive Here for Battle

Doug Wycoff and his Newark Bears arrived in Atlanta Tuesday and started practice for their game with the Fort Benning Tanks, to be played at Spiller field at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

It is believed that Wycoff's Bears will meet stiffer opposition from the soldiers than they have met in the past for three years, than they would have from a pick-up team of ex-college players who have not had the advantage of playing together under one coach.

The Fort Benning team is, with few exceptions, the team that has twice represented the army in the president's cup match, which is held in Washington each November. This match is played to decide the service championship, and a team which represents its branch of the service in the final battle must play real football. A glance over this season's schedule will convince the doubters that service teams do play football, as all the leading teams of the army, navy and marines have records of which any college could be proud.

Fort Benning will not bring rookies to Atlanta when they arrive on Friday morning, but will present a string of veterans who are able to give their team a battle. The service teams play under college rules which prevent a man from playing more than three seasons of amateur football. This means that every man on the team has finished his three years of college competition before turning professional and, therefore, knows the game as only a veteran can know it.

With Williams, Connally, Murray, Brewster and the incomparable Doug Wycoff, all from Georgia Tech, and Maurer from Oglethorpe all on the field at once, Spiller field will take on the aspect of a homecoming day on Saturday afternoon. The Tech cheering section will attend in a body to root for the home boys and, of course, every available soldier will be on hand to yell for tanks.

Tickets have been placed on sale at Stewart Murray's cigar stand in the Forsyth building, at the Rex and Chevrolet places. Soldiers can procure tickets at reduced rates at the Yellow Jacket, Commercial High, Tech High and Fulton High.

A meeting of the Sunday School Athletic association will be held Thursday night at the Atlanta Athletic club at 7:30 o'clock, at which time final plans will be made for the cage year opening Monday night, December 13, at 7:30 o'clock.

The members of the teams, managers and coaches are requested to be present at this meeting so that the rules and regulations governing basketball can be gone over and discussed fully.

ter of the field. Just before the half ended Conley plowed through center and did a beautiful bit of broken field running for about 40 yards, when he was downed only a few yards from the goal. Two more plays and time was called. This saved the ordnance from what looked very much like another touchdown.

The ordnance made a grand comeback the second half. Their backs tore through the airman's line and circled their ends for long gains, and before much of the third quarter had lapsed the air service goal was threatened.

A few line bucks and the ball was carried to the one-yard line, when Dee bucked center for the touchdown. Waite failed to kick goal.

Denied Again

Los Angeles, December 8.—For the third time since his arrival at his home in Los Angeles after his fight at the Philadelphia Sesqui-centennial, which cost him his heavyweight boxing title, Jack Dempsey issued a denial here that he had been poisoned before the bout. In answer to a purported interview with him published in New York the champion declared he never had told any one that he was poisoned before the contest. "This poisoning story is getting to be a joke," he said, "somewhat heatedly."

TECH CAGERS SEEK OUTSIDE TRAINING TILT

BY CARTER BARRON.

Atlanta basketball teams desiring practice games should get in touch with Coach Roy Mundorff, at Georgia Tech.

For Coach Mundorff has a lot of husky cagers who are training every day and is anxious to match them against some proficient outfit in practice games. He guarantees plenty of practice.

Following a much expressed dissatisfaction with the work of the cagers several days ago by Mundorff, the boys have picked up considerably and now he is more than pleased with the manner in which they are working.

The Tech cagers have not many days left before they will depart on a northern tour which opens in Cleveland on December 20 and carries through until December 29 with games in about eight Ohio and Indiana cities.

It is toward this trip that the Tech cagers are putting in most of their energies just now, for the regular season will not open until after the first of the year, when the Atlanta Athletic club quintet is taken on for a fast and furious milling.

The best looking aggregation yet disposed among those in the varsity basketball layout at the flats is something like this: Wilder and Moreland at forward; Horn at center, and George and Brant at guards.

However there is another good looking team. It is composed of Martin and Wilcox at forward; Horn at center, and Jamison and Wazelbaum at guard.

This splits the leaders, with Wilder on the first mentioned team and Jamison on the second. Wilder is captain and Jamison is alternate captain. The general belief is that when the time comes for real work, Jamison will go into the regular lineup with Wilder.

The general aspect of the Tech cagers is improving, just as Coach Mundorff says it is. Mundorff's style is a passing game, and the boys are becoming daily more proficient at it.

Hannegan Made Middy Captain

Annapolis, Md., December 8.—(AP)

E. A. "Ned" Hannegan, of Washington, D. C., today was elected captain of Navy's 1927 football team. Hannegan has played quarterback for two years and has been one of the outstanding performers on the Middy eleven.

CONFERENCE RULING PROVES JOKE TO FOOTBALL COACHES

Jacksonville, Fla., December 8.—(AP)—The southern conference seems to have played a joke on itself during its last strenuous executive session here last Saturday. The football season was lengthened to include the second Saturday after Thanksgiving, but that is also the date by constitutional provision for the general assembly of the conference.

Thus, under the constitution, the conference leaders will be assembled at Lexington in annual session next year while Georgia Tech clashes on the gridiron with Georgia in Atlanta and while other eleven are playing their final games of the season. Not only will the athletic directors miss the concluding contests of the season, but the majority of the coaches will also be absent from the frays. The Southern Association of Football Coaches meets annually with the Southern conference.

The constitution cannot be changed without a vote by the whole representation of the conference, and usually proposals for changes must be submitted in advance of annual meetings and must gain the favor of the committee on constitution and by-laws.

GAS WAR DANGER TO CITIES SLIGHT

So Declares Chemical Warfare Head in Address Before Chemical Engineers at Biltmore.

Reports that large cities will be wiped out easily through the use of a small amount of newly discovered chemical poisons dropped from airplanes was branded as "an illusion" by Colonel C. E. Brigham, chief of staff of the chemical warfare bureau, Wednesday night in an address at the 19th annual meeting of the American institute of chemical engineers in session at the Biltmore hotel. "Actually there is no experience, no war data, from which to draw exact conclusions," Colonel Brigham declared. "Large cities in time of war, if considered important objectives, have appropriate defenses. These defense forces are for the purpose of interfering with and preventing enemy attack with gas or other weapons."

"There is reason to believe that cities will have even less to fear from chemicals than from high explosives," he added, stating that practically no new poisons have been discovered since the war and that prophylactics in the form of masks are known for every existing poison."

Buildings Protect.
Gas dropped from an airplane must strike in the streets or open ground spaces to be of greatest effect. Swirling air currents common in city streets would dilute and blow away the gases. Buildings offer considerable protection from gas if people close doors and windows and go to the higher floors, he continued.

The foundation of national defense, the speaker said, must be in the heart of the community known as patriotism. "The last war demonstrated that every type of business has a part of play in war of any magnitude. Plans for the utilization and cooperation of industry to avoid confusion, mistakes and waste which occurred, then, are now well advanced as a part of our national defense scheme," he said.

He reviewed the cycles of weapons illustrating the contest between offense and defense and declared that the history of war is one of application of progress of some art, science or industry to purposes of national defense.

Urges Readiness.
Utilization of potential chemical power and readiness to do this immediately at the outbreak of war, should chemical weapons be used, was urged by the speaker. "Research must keep the army informed as to what may be used and how to protect against it. If gases of a far greater power are discovered it will be of little value in war unless it will penetrate, or in some way overcome, existing protection," he said.

President Hugh K. Moore was the first speaker of the meeting and reviewed the work of the institute, calling attention to the strides made in all branches of science during the past year. He depicted today as an age of specialism in every profession, which he declared was brought about by the tremendous growth of industry. High tribute to the founders of the organization was paid by the president who dilated on the provisions of the code of ethics.

Opposes Abolition.
Condemnation of proposals to abolish chemical warfare was voiced by Dr. W. K. Lewis, head of the department of chemical engineering of Massachusetts and chief of research of the chemical bureau at Washington.

During the world war, the speaker said, although 27 per cent of American expeditionary force casualties were due to poison gas less than 2 per cent of the total deaths resulted in death or permanent disability.

"In other words," Dr. Lewis continued, "if it falls to a soldier's lot to be a casualty of war, his chances for life are over 12 times as great if he succumbs to gas than if he is overcome by the enemy by other means."

He emphasized the fact that while the navy, American sea power, has tremendous throttling effect upon the enemy, it lacks striking power and for this reason America should not obligate herself by treaty to use gas. "While Germany possessed this initiative throughout the struggle, at no time was she more than one jump ahead of the allies and yet, as the result of the initiative, she inflicted ten gas casualties upon her enemies to one received from them. One of the important factors in her throwing up the sponge may well have been her knowledge that this initiative was at last about to pass to the allies."

Morning Session.
Prior to the address motion pictures depicting the use of dynamite in blasting rock at the Stone mountain memorial was shown in addition to the "Story of Dynamite," showing details of manufacture.

Officers from the Fourth Corps area headquarters attended the meeting in a body. The morning session was featured by reports of officers and council and the reading of the following papers: "The Changing Factors in Chemical Plant Location," by A. E. Marshall; "Market as a Factor in Connection with Plant Location," by William M. Booth; "Unusual Factors in Plant Location," by J. H. James; "The Atlanta District as a Location for Chemical Plants," by Andrew M. Fairlie; "Can Corrosion Be Prevented," by Maximilian Toch; "What Do We Know About Copper-Nickel Alloys?" by M. G. Corson; and "The Properties and Functions of Filter Aids," by H. L. Olin, F. V. Morrison, J. S. Rogers and G. H. Nelson.

Mayor Walter A. Sims welcomed the engineers to Atlanta on behalf of the city and Hugh K. Moore, president, responded, at a luncheon at the Biltmore, at 12:30 o'clock.

A sightseeing trip was taken at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and at 4:30 o'clock a motion picture reel was exhibited by the Georgia Railway and Power company, showing partially developed resources of the state of Georgia.

NORTH CAROLINA MAN WINS SOUTHERN'S CUP

The handsome silver cup offered by the Southern Railway system to the grower of the best 10 ears of corn produced in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky or Tennessee, was awarded Wednesday to J. A. Patterson, of China Grove, Rowan county, North Carolina.

The award was made by a committee of experts. Mr. Patterson's exhibit, which won first prize at the Central Carolina fair at Greensboro, N. C., was one of 18 which had qualified to compete for the Southern's cup by winning first prize at leading fairs. His name will be engraved on the cup, along with that of Willie Patton Boland, of Newberry county, South Carolina, who won it last year, and it will remain in his possession until the winner for next year is announced.

TALMADGE ATTENDS ENTOMOLOGY SESSION

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture-elect, attended a meeting of the state board of entomology at the capital Wednesday to discuss plans for the work of the department next year. Mr. Talmadge will become ex-officio chairman of the board when he goes into office next June. Plans for the year's work in combating plant diseases were discussed. Those who attended the session were J. J. Brown, ex-officio chairman; J. P. Hoeg, Dr. R. C. Berckmans and Haliard de la Parolle.

CHALIAPIN OPERA, ON TUESDAY NEXT, TO DRAW CROWDS

Only two days remain during which the chance to choose seats for the Feodor Chaliapin presentation of "The Barber of Seville," ahead of the regular ticket purchasers, may be exercised. By reason of the special season sale of tickets for the remaining three attractions of the artist series, on this week at Phillips and Crew Piano company, first choice of seats for the Chaliapin engagement, which is going to draw a capacity crowd to the auditorium next Tuesday night, may be secured. In addition, the cost of the season ticket for all three attractions is only about equal to that of two, bought separately.

The other two attractions of the series are Frieda Hempel, the famous soprano, who comes on January 14, and Mikhail Mordkin with the Russian ballet, coming on March 9. That the Chaliapin appearance on Tuesday next is going to draw a typical Atlanta opera audience is already assured. Leaders in musical and social circles have already engaged most of the boxes and the demand for orchestra seats is heavy. The engagement, in fact, is fast taking on the form of a one-day opera season, forming a welcome break in the long break between the annual visits of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Sentenced on Mann Act.

Jack Carlisle Wednesday was sentenced in United States district court to pay a fine of $1,000 or serve a year and a day in the federal penitentiary on charges of violating the Mann act by transporting a woman from Montgomery, Ala., to Atlanta.

MASONS HEAR VALUE OF BIG AD CAMPAIGN

It is a popular supposition among northerners that the south is financially prostrate because of the slump in cotton prices, according to Frank E. Jaynes, of Chicago, an executive of the American City Bureau, speaking in behalf of the Forward Atlanta movement before the Atlanta Masonic club at noon Wednesday in the Henry Grady hotel.

"Success of the Forward Atlanta campaign among other things will emphatically contradict this delusion," he said. Three working teams of eight men each were formed among members of the Masonic club, headed by Harry M. Root, president of the Civitan club; Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, and James Ingram.

SUNDAY SYMPHONY FEATURES ROSITA RENARD AT PIANO

The announcement that Rosita Renard, the popular Chilean pianist, is to be guest artist at the concert of the Atlanta Symphony orchestra at Low's Grand theater next Sunday afternoon, has caused a rush on the box office at Phillips and Crew Piano company, this week, and it is probable that one of the largest crowds of the season will be present next Sunday. Tickets for this performance alone may be secured, while season tickets for the remaining five concerts of the symphony series may be had at a considerably lower rate.

NEGRO YOUTH ROBS WOMAN OF PURSE, $15

Mrs. W. F. Edwards, 1100 Alta avenue, reported to police that her purse, containing $15, was snatched from her by a negro Tuesday night on Alta avenue near her home, after she had just gotten off a street car at Euclid and Alta avenues.

Mrs. Edwards told Call Officers L. P. Higgins and M. D. Cartwright that the negro suddenly appeared from behind a post and lunged at her, grabbing her purse and disappeared in the darkness. She was unable to furnish officers with a description of the footpad.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

BY HIS ACTIVE, ROVING LIFE WASHINGTON LAID THE FOUNDATION OF GREAT INTELLIGENCE, HARDHOOD AND INDEPENDENCE. HIS WINTERS HE SPENT WITH HIS BROTHER LAWRENCE AT MOUNT VERNON, NAMED AFTER THE ADMIRAL UNDER WHOM LAWRENCE HAD SERVED IN THE ENGLISH NAVY. LAWRENCE GAVE QUITE ELABORATE PARTIES AND THERE GEORGE GAINED EASE AND POLISH OF MANNER AND BECAME A GREAT FAVORITE WITH LORD FAIRFAX.

GEORGE HAD A NUMBER OF YOUNG LADY FRIENDS, IN ONE OF WHOM HE TOOK A GREAT INTEREST, BUT APPARENTLY THIS WAS NOT RECIPROCATED, FOR IN A DIARY HE SAYS THAT AS SOON AS HE RECOVERS FROM AN ILLNESS HE PLANS "TO WAIT ON MISS BETSY IN THE HOPES OF A REVOCATION OF THE FORMER CRUEL SENTENCE, AND SEE IF I CAN MEET WITH ANY ALTERATION IN MY FAVOR." WE MAY SMILE AT WASHINGTON'S OLD-FASHIONED GALLANTRY, AND HIS MISTAKES IN SPELLING AND GRAMMAR, BUT THEY WERE FAULTS HE OVERCAME HIMSELF BY PAINSTAKING PRACTICE, AS HE NEVER AGAIN WENT TO SCHOOL.

ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE FACTS ABOUT THE BOY WASHINGTON WAS THAT, EVEN AS A BOY, HE WAS TRUSTED WITH EXCEEDINGLY DIFFICULT TASKS. THE FRENCH IN CANADA, HAVING CLAIMED THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER, WERE PUSHING INTO THE COUNTRY AROUND THE OHIO RIVER. THE ENGLISH COLONISTS SAW THEIR GROWTH WOULD SOON FORCE THEM IN THE SAME DIRECTION. GEORGE'S HALF-BROTHERS, LAWRENCE AND AUGUSTINE, BELONGED TO A GROUP OF MEN CALLED "THE OHIO COMPANY." THEY HELD A CHARTER FROM THE KING GRANTING THEM 500,000 ACRES IN THE OHIO VALLEY. THIS ORGANIZATION WAS FORMED TO PROMOTE EMIGRATION INTO THIS GREAT NEW COUNTRY.

IT SOON BECAME APPARENT THAT THERE WOULD BE TROUBLE BETWEEN THE FRENCH AND ENGLISH COLONISTS OVER THE POSSESSION OF THE WONDERFUL OHIO COUNTRY. TRAINING OF THE MILITIA OF VIRGINIA WAS STARTED AND PREPARATIONS BEGUN FOR WAR. THE COLONY WAS DIVIDED INTO PROVINCES WITH A MILITARY OFFICER OVER THE MILITIA OF EACH. LAWRENCE HAD GEORGE, THEN ONLY NINETEEN, APPOINTED TO THE COMMAND OF ONE OF THESE DISTRICTS WITH THE TITLE OF ADJUTANT-GENERAL AND THE RANK OF MAJOR. IT WAS ONE OF THE YOUNG MAN'S DUTIES TO EXERCISE AND TRAIN THE MILITIAMEN AND INSTRUCT THEM IN THE MANUAL OF ARMS.

For the Flavor's sake

Only baking in the dry heat of real ovens gives beans the real honest-to-goodness oven-baked flavor—that satisfying combination of delightful aroma and delicious taste.

Heinz Beans are slowly, carefully oven-baked for the flavor's sake. There is no denying that beans do taste better when they are prepared this way.

Takes more time—more trouble. But it's worth it as everybody knows who eats Heinz Oven-Baked Beans.

Miss Callaway Weds Edgar Gordon Burton.

Miami, Fla., December 8.—The marriage of Miss Clayton Callaway to Edgar Gordon Burton, of Toronto, Canada, was solemnized Tuesday, December 7, at 4 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Dowdell, a close friend of the bride's family. The Rev. Dr. S. H. C. Burgin, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, south, performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives. The improvised altar was placed in front of the fireplace which was banked with palms and large baskets of pink and white gladioli. Tall cathedral seven-branched candelabra held glowing tapers at either side of the altar, while at various points of vantage about the room were baskets of gladioli and candles in the tall silver candelabers.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Alice Callaway, whose head and shoulders were in pink and white gladioli. Tall cathedral seven-branched candelabra held glowing tapers at either side of the altar, while at various points of vantage about the room were baskets of gladioli and candles in the tall silver candelabers.

The bride was beautiful in her traveling gown of brown crepe-back satin made with tiered skirt and trimmed with georgette of a lighter shade. Her smart hair was brown. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies.

Mr. Burton and his bride will sail in January for Europe, after which they will return to make their home in Toronto.

Miss Burton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clayton Callaway, former prominent Atlantans, who are now residing in Miami, Fla., where Mr. Callaway is well known in the real estate circles.

DENBY ASSUMES OIL LEASE BLAME

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, December 8.—Full responsibility for the Doherty oil lease, was assumed by Denby, former secretary of the navy, while testifying in the Fall-Doherty oil conspiracy trial today.

Denby was in office at the time but resigned under fire after the senate Teapot dome inquiry resulted in a censure by democratic senators for his

He said he suggested to President Harding the executive order transferring the naval oil reserves to Fall's interior department, to be administered under policies laid down by the navy.

Government Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts sought, in a sweating cross-examination, to show that Denby acted only in a rubber-stamp capacity in these matters, that he merely signed letters and orders prepared by Rear Admiral Robinson, who was working with Fall and Doherty in the leasing projects.

The defense has insisted that Fall was not responsible for the leases, and therefore could not have conspired with Doherty.

It placed the full responsibility on Denby.

He assumed it in his testimony. Then the government undertook to show that Denby only technically approved everything, while Fall and Doherty actually worked out the deal with their friend, Rear Admiral Robinson.

Character Witnesses.

Several character witnesses for Denby were put on the stand. One said that Doherty was president of the Practical Patriots' League of Los Angeles. Others testified to his character and patriotism.

Roberts, roaring in his deep bass voice, put Denby through the severest cross-examination seen at this trial. Denby admitted that he had not before approving the oil leases, sought to learn how much profit Doherty expected to get, asked the advice of government technical experts, inquired how much oil was in the naval reserves, or how long Doherty would be drilling it out. He answered that he could not recall sometimes to six or eight questions running.

A. W. Ambrose, interior department technical oil expert who participated in drafting the leases and contracts, admitted that he made a trip to Hawaii to inspect the progress of the oil-tank construction in Doherty's private yacht. The oil man was not aboard, however.

Doherty appeared in court today with his arm still in a sling. Though he was kept in bed with a slight fever yesterday, he seemed quite recovered and moved about during the trial, listening chatting with his family and spectators. Twice during Denby's cross-examination Doherty seemed much agitated and conferred in emphatic stage whispers with his lawyers.

BILL TO LICENSE FARM GROUP SALE OF BEER OFFERED

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.) Washington, December 8.—Offered as a combination farm relief and Volstead modification proposal, a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Black, (democrat, New York) would create a "federal alcoholic liquor board" within the department of agriculture to license farm organizations to sell beer and wine not intoxicating in fact. A board of chemists and physicians would determine whether the beverages to be sold were actually intoxicating and the revenue derived from the issuance of licenses would be used to finance farm relief measures "under safeguards that do not increase the cost of living for the consumer."

Education In England And in America Compared

CADETT DESCRIBES LIFE OF ENGLISH SCHOOLBOY

(Editor's Note—Thomas Cadett, of The London Times, is the holder of the Walter Hines Page newspaper fellowship, and is spending a year in America under the terms of the fellowship. He has temporarily joined the staff of The Constitution. Mr. Cadett has served on the staff of The San Francisco Chronicle and The Chicago Daily News. The Constitution was selected, without his knowledge, as the representative southern newspaper on which he is to serve in getting a national acquaintance with American conditions.)

BY THOMAS CADETT.

Some of the uses to which good English have been put in America amount almost to sacrilege.

Occasionally, however, one comes across a word which you have taken and endowed with a new and remarkable significance, and "background" is one of them.

It is entirely apt. One of the most important features in the "background" of any nation is its educational system, and both in discovering difference between British and American and assigning their causes, a study of educational method is essential.

Comparison of the actual teaching and learning of lessons must be left to those better qualified to deal with the academic side of the matter. My own attention was first drawn to the psychological aspect of the question by the genuine horror of an American matron when she learned that British boys leave their mothers for school usually not later than their tenth birthday, and that they are soundly beaten when they misbehave.

England has a system of four kinds—preparatory, public, private and municipal. The first two are closely related and require some further description. Municipal schools are paid for out of the rates, that is local taxes, and provide free education for those who desire to take advantage of it. In practice, only those who cannot afford to educate their children otherwise send them to these schools. They are day schools—in other words, the pupils live in their own homes and attend daily for instruction.

Boy's First School.

Private schools are more or less kindergarten affairs to which the small boys go, living at home, until they are old enough for preparatory school. The preparatory school is a sort of public school in miniature, and owes its title to the fact that it is a preparation for the public school.

Some of them actually have an intangible yet well-defined affiliation with certain public schools, so that boys who are later to go to, say, Harrow, will often go through a large part of their education together.

It is at the preparatory school that the boy is first treated in a manner that is an atmosphere that will last throughout his life; it is here that he begins to learn the lesson of self-reliance. He has left home, he lives among other boys up to the age of 12 or so, and home, after a few days of nostalgic misery, becomes a dim sort of paradise that must not be thought about too often.

One is usually happy enough in such a community; the feminine influence is lacking, but the compensation—adequate enough. I have seen the actual discipline, restraint and cooperation that is to be gathered. Each boy very soon finds his place in the scheme of things, and as the months go by he will, if he is normal, achieve the progressive, self-reliance and the waiting list is often long. For many schools boys have to be entered at birth.

"Fagging" is general in most of these schools. A "fag" is a small boy, incidentally he may be a prince or a duke, though that avails him nothing—below a certain age or position in the school, who is at the beck and call of the more senior members. There are of two kinds, personal and general. The personal fag owes obedience and service to one particular overlord, whose study he will clean, whose shoes he will polish, whose unofficial meals he will cook, whose slightest command he will obey. The general fag is any boy liable for such duty who may be encountered by the prefect who suddenly desires something to be done. The system is open to abuses, yet actually it works well enough. To American ideas it may seem degrading, but to us it is the most natural thing in the world. Sooner or later the fag of yesterday is the senior of today; his turn of obedience over, he is the more likely to be capable of reasonable direction. Offenses against the rigid yet quite indescribable school-boy code are dealt with by the boys themselves in effective fashion. Twenty years ago brutality and "bullying" were common; today there has been a vast improvement without any relaxation of discipline.

Sports Compulsory.

Sports are compulsory. Every boy who is physically fit must play football or cricket, according to the season. In this manner is good physical condition obtained; without this rule many small boys would distend their stomachs with chocolates and cakes from the "tuck-shop" and achieve at an early age all the flabbiness that, sooner or later, civilization thrusts upon most of us.

By playing games they learn the precious lesson of the selfish team-work, so that the advantage is not exclusively physical. Serious offenses are punished by the rod. If the delinquent is an important affair, a senior boy will wield the cane; if it is more serious, the headmaster sees to it. Caneing is definitely unpleasant; it hurts. But whatever the reason may be, the brutalizing element does not exist. The average small boy is a careless person, and his sense of ethics, though fundamentally sound, is comparatively undeveloped. On the other hand, he is fond of his own hide, and having received one caning he earnestly seeks out avoiding another. Let me add, as a personal tribute to its effectiveness, the statement that one application of the cane sent me bounding from the bottom of my class in mathematics to the second place in a period of one week.

Much has been written about the English public school; adulation, condemnation, pride and disgust can be found in such writings. It must be admitted that the system tends toward a certain standardization, that the unusual individual suffers. In the last analysis, judgment must be based on one's personal opinion of the type that the system produces. It is easier for the outsider to judge than for one who has been to such a school. I must look upon it as an essential part of British education.

American University.

My only first-hand acquaintance with American education has been in latter end, the university. As the guest of a fraternity house at the University of California I received the proud distinction of being treated as an Englishman and cheered at football matches; I drank synthetic gin; I went to dances and took "coeds" out to dinner; I learned that hotel spoons fit neatly into the waistcoat pocket; and I even attended classes.

Apart from the fact that in English universities we have no fraternities, there was a great psychological difference. The English undergraduate is comparatively sophisticated, he has learned the lesson of discipline and restraint and self-reliance. He has learned, also, to show much less emotion than he feels. In consequence he goes to a university with an equipment that, judging by my observation, the American has yet to acquire. I saw American freshmen treated in a manner that no Englishman of their age would endure. They were beaten and disciplined and made to perform menial tasks in precisely the same manner that obtains at the British public school. The important point is that we get all that over before the university, while you leave the process until later.

Each to his own taste. I must confess that it went against the grain to see physically grown men being treated like school boys. But the truth is, that in England the discipline is that is all that they were. They were, in fact, outwardly more emotional, less disciplined and less sophisticated, cause of rumors that a number of smaller distributors and retailers meeting Tuesday night had agreed not to meet a 3-cent cut in gasoline prices, made Tuesday by one local dealer.

GORDON HOSIERY

The Ragged Edge

By HENRY C. ROWLAND.

SYNOPSIS.
Carillon Boyd unceremoniously visits Bengal Dodd by swimming from her brother's yacht, the Rigel, to the Gunga. Both yachts are anchored in the harbor at Hamilton, Bermuda. The Rigel is about to sail around the world on a semi-scientific expedition, and Carillon asks Dodd to tag along after the Rigel. Outraged by the request, Dodd asks Jim Howland and his daughter, Gertrude, to accompany him.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A BLOW FALLS ON THE RIGEL.

Jim Howland was of a distinct type, a lean but well knit man of medium height but very broad of shoulder, with the chest and shoulders of a sailor man. There was a boyish eagerness and enthusiasm about him, especially when the day's work had to do with matters nautical. Just as some men are electrified by race horses or cars or golf or fishing, Jim Howland's passion was for boats, especially seagoing craft, though he loved them all, from a toy or antique model to the Leviathan or Wyoming.

He plunged now into the voyage proposed, trying to explain to the less technical Bengal the relative speed ratio he had worked out approximately for Rigel and Gunga.

"V over the root of L, for a constant to start with," he began, getting out his pencil and disfiguring the tablecloth. "V to equal the speed in knots, and L the length in feet, y'understand..."

Gertrude rested her bare dimpled elbows on the table, dropped her square little chin on her tanned knuckles, and looked at Bengal, amused. She perceived that he did not understand at all; was a little bored, in fact, as the clear-as-mud technical explanation proceeded. Bengal's forte was distinctly not mathematical. In college he had barely managed to clear his coattails when the door slammed on this subject. As a designer, he had an eye for a boat. He could navigate by the old method which ignored azimuths of the sun. Playing safe on his run to Bermuda, he had taken a wide margin of casting, missed the island, then run down his latitude until he picked up Gibbs Hill light, after dark. Gertrude, trained by her father in a little swordfisher they had made into a yacht of sorts, was a far better navigator.

She stopped smiling presently on discovering that Bengal's attention had strayed. He had caught sight of Carillon, coming up the terrace with a buston, overdressed, and much bejeweled lady of early middle age, rather pretty; what a Scotsman would have described as "sonsy." Gertrude frowned. She regarded Carillon askance, with a mixture of dislike and fascination. She knew the stories about her. Carillon might or might not be a thief, but she was unquestionably a siren and pearl diver, as Jim Howland said, akin to the gold digger of drama. She engaged herself to marry men, to plunder them, and gave nothing in return, unless her fiancés lied nobly.

Gertrude did not want Bengal to fall in love with Carillon, and she was beginning to fear that he had already suffered such a tumble. Bengal was the sort Gertrude approved, a little ironic perhaps, but keen of wit. He possessed a repartee that boomed out deliberately but hit the mark, like a well directed sixteen-inch shell. His massive physical strength would have been apparent if he had been sitting in a steam bath with only his head visible. The bony structures of his face showed it. There was not an ounce of fat on him, his five feet eleven being mostly heavy bone, with bands of muscle slapped on in due proportion. His waist was small and flat. Plainly he would never be fat and bald at any age, because he ate and drank so sparingly and lived in the open air. Gertrude liked his crow-black hair, blue-black, like the wing of that bird, and his predatory beak, and the gasches in his cheeks. Blonde herself, his swartheness appealed to her.

Carillon and her new acquaintance passed their table, where the cloth had been spread. "Hello, Gungas," said Carillon, her pale green eyes on Bengal. "We Rigels are having a swimming party this afternoon. Please come."

She presented her companion, a Mrs. Ransome, a widow, and husband hunting, Bengal imagined. Howland said it was a bit of gossip, as yacht club scouts are apt to be. Bengal reflected that her ring alone might furnish some ex-princes ransom. Their propensity to Carillon worried him, as if he had gone off and left the cat in the same room with the canary.

"Let's go to her party," Gertrude said, when the two women had passed on. "Swimming's the best they have to offer here."

"Hope the plump party parks her jewels with Gran before she gorges her body in the brine," Howland said, gloomily. "She'd be S. O. L. if she got a cramp in both hind legs and Carillon went to the rescue."

"Stow it, Dad," Gertrude said, abruptly.

"Well, Dodd knows the said affliction. He asked me to refute it, but I gave him the lowdown for his best good. And ours. We don't want him to hock Gunga to buy a solitaire."

"No fear," said Bengal. "If ever I get engaged to Carillon the wedding will follow before the breeze has time to shift. Then, once aboard the lugger..."

"Well, we don't want that, either," Gertrude said, positively. "Leaving Dad and me on the beach on the Galapagos, or whatever you call 'em. We mightn't have the price to get home."

"Less fear of that, even, lassie. I need you to navigate the junk. I might hunt for the Low Archipelago till all the planks did shrink. Anyhow, here's some sea turtle, so if the worst comes to the worst you'll know what you have to live on."

But the swimming party was not held that afternoon. At Bengal's suggestion, Howland and his daughter had taken up their quarters aboard, to get the swing of things before putting to sea in a couple of days. Going aboard Rigel at 4:30, they found Granville Boyd sitting in the deck house chair with a face like a white skull.

"Well, the blow has fallen," he said grimly. "Looks as if the voyage was off, or indefinitely postponed. That Ransome woman has lost the bulk of her jewels, and she's squalling like a stuck pig."

The particulars were painful. Carillon, cruising about the hotel, had come on Mrs. Ransome giving some directions to her maid, a slant-eyed French girl named Irma. As ill luck turned the card, Irma had the year previous been Carillon's maid, leaving her employment in all friendliness because of an opportunity to take service with Mrs. Ransome, about to sail for France. Irma desired to revisit her beloved Paris. Carillon had not protested. Perhaps she felt that Irma might be a latent source of danger.

Pausing now in answer to Irma's respectful greeting, Carillon had got in conversation with Mrs. Ransome, who was lonely and eagerly welcomed an acquaintanceship. They spent the morning together, buying a few things in the shops, doekins and scarfs. Carillon lunched with her new pickup, going later with her to her rooms. She had asked Mrs. Ransome aboard, for swimming and tea, Carillon going off to Rigel to give some orders to the steward, send him ashore for ices and cakes and things.

Shortly after her came the hotel detective, with grave charges. Mrs. Ransome's jewel case, which, of course, she should have put in the safe, had been stolen, with contents estimated to the value of two hundred and fifty thousand. The detective had been informed that Miss Boyd was known to be afflicted with a most lamentable form of monomania. Such mental defects were known to occur in the best families, like other accidents. If Miss Boyd would hand over the jewels the affair would be hushed up (maybe).

Carillon, Granville told them, was locked up in her cabin, in a state of pale and silent fury. He had warned her that the next lapse would be her last, that he would commit her to an institution for such irresponsibilities. She denied any knowledge of what had happened to the jewels. A search had discovered nothing of them. Granville Boyd did not know what to think. He had given his sister twenty-four hours in which to restore the jewels, at the end of which time he intended to sail for New York, if permitted by the Bermudian police, who as yet had not been called on the case.

Bengal listened to Boyd's bitter recital with the set, expressionless face that one of his ancestors might have worn on returning from a voyage to learn that the girl he loved had been carried off by Indians. For some reason Boyd seemed addressing this new acquaintance, rather than Howland, who was an old friend. Bengal had some quality that inspired confidence and dissolved reserve, so that the fact of his being a comparative stranger was negligible, as it might have been in the case of a distinguished surgeon or lawyer called in consultation. Now, when Boyd had finished speaking, he asked:

"Would you really commit her to an institution for irresponsibilities?"

"Yes, I would, if only for her own sake, and while I've still got jurisdiction over her. Before she gets landed in something worse. Mind you, Dodd, there's no element of family or personal pride in the rotten business. Not even censure. Carillon came by this moral obliquity fairly. It's an inheritance, a family curse."

New York, December 8.—(By the Associated Press.)

A strong market for foreign bonds stood out in contrast to the irregular price tendencies of domestic issues today. Trading continued to expand in volume but firm time money conditions caused some profit taking among obligations which had been prominent in the recent advance.

The satisfactory operation of the Devises and the improved outlook for currency stabilization in Europe created a better demand for German and Belgian issues, several of which sold at new high prices. The German government bonds held above 100 and both the Belgian 7s and 6 1/2s worked into new high ground. Gains of a point or more were recorded for the Cologne city bonds, Rhein-Elbe Union 7s and Saxon Public Works 7s.

Investment circles were surprised by the small financing program of the United States treasury for December 15, which will consist of $200,000,000 nine-month 3 1/4 per cent certificates. The transaction will cut down the supply of short term material which is in great demand for institutional investments. Liberty bonds were moderately higher today but the treasury issues were little changed.

Independent strong features in the domestic list included Granby mining 7s, which rallied more than 1 point, and the 7 1/2s and 8 1/2s International Mercantile Marine 6s. These gains were partially counteracted by the heaviness of Botany Mills 6s, which fell 1/2 point, and the 5s and 6 1/2s Western Steel 7s.

New financing, which included $5,170,000 6 per cent bonds for the city of Houston, Texas, were promptly absorbed.

Money Market.

LIBERAL TRIUMPH

something will happen in national politics to make necessary new alignments because of fresh and vital issues.

"There is a south that practices and justifies lynching and another south that believes that it is unjustifiable under any and all circumstances, and is resolutely determined to put it to an end."

"No one can predict what may happen in the south in the next quarter of a century. Men and women of brave and patient and wise. No one need go elsewhere to find larger and more creative opportunities than those that lie at our door. Dr. Mims said: 'We of the south shall achieve progress in no selfish or provincial spirit. We seek the advancement of the whole country; we aspire to become great in business, in education, in the fine arts, in spiritual insight and power, in order that the republic may be greater than ever before.'

Outlining "three types of southernness," Dr. Mims continued, "I would lay emphasis tonight on the type of southernness so largely represented here tonight, the man whom circumstances, accident or deliberately chosen, have caused to live in this city. He has adapted himself to a new environment, is enmeshed of his task, has the wide outlook of an American citizen, and yet continues to take an interest in the community or state of his birth, and helps to solve its problems."

Scores Help South.

He retains certain fundamental traits and points of view from his southern breeding, and because of this fact has made certain distinct contributions to any community which he lives. He is not a waiter, for he finds opportunities to help individuals and institutions and causes that promote southernness.

"This society examines the names of scores of men who have added to the lustre of their achievements in every profession the glory of having rendered signal service to their native section."

"The most significant single fact about the southern situation is that there is a conflict on every level between a conservative and progressive forces," Dr. Mims said, and told hearers that he could not afford to be neutral or indifferent in the matter.

"You have blushed many times at the things that are done in the south, but what are you doing to make things impossible? Tennesseeans have had Dayton flung at them in sermons, articles and speeches and the sister states are not yet wakened. But what are you doing to strengthen the leaders and forces that will make them impossible? 'The south now has the opportunity to profit by the mistakes that have been made elsewhere. How is the intolerance of the mob any worse than the intolerance of the mob? In making a fight against certain dangerous tendencies we shall be making a contribution to the nation. Disciples of the new movement must be the wisdom of life quite as much as a stout old conservative who meets every new movement or idea with the formula that it is not new, and it is not true its not new.' All that glitters is not progress, yet of the triumph of the progressive and liberal forces I have not a shadow of doubt."

"Frankly, the south needs industrial prosperity but not at the expense of the grace and charm of life. We need education for the masses and expert training for those who are to be leaders but we should not like to have vocational and technical training directly take the place of liberal culture."

"We want all that modern science can bring to us but we do not want to become scientific and rationalistic at the expense of the spiritual values of life. We can get along without a literature that finds its material in the garbage can and without a theater that ministers to the obscenity and the audience. We have seen some of the effects of these things on the modern mind and we want to avoid them."

Senator George Speaks.

Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, said "energy and capital of the nation have turned steadily toward the south. Developments in water power and in industrial expansion. Political thinking in any section is the last to undergo a change. However, the south is growing more independent in its politics, thinking and voting."

"The south has always theoretically believed in tariff for revenue and it is now growing more and more convinced that it may be sold in the domestic market. Its growers are now demanding tariff protection against foreign interests. The south stands for scientific adjustments and reduction of tariff to protect its products. The day of free trade, if it ever existed in the south, has passed."

"The supreme need of the section is an accumulated capital reserve and reduction in all fixed charges, if production is to go on."

One of the most pleasing bills of the season is on the boards at Loew's Grand theater this week where "Revue Fantasy" is the headline on the vaudeville bill and "Bardelys, the Mag-

"Revue Fantasy" is a pretentious dancing act with beautiful scenery and gorgeous costumes. Other acts on the bill are Helene "Smiles" Davis
and Earl Nelson in a comedy skit; McDevitt, Kelly and Quinn in a burlesque sketch with songs and dances;
Rose O'Hara, prima donna, in a pleasing selection of songs and the Powers
 Duo in a daring high perch act. John Gilbert and Eleanor Boardman are stars in "Bardelys, the Magnificent,"
which is one of the noteworthy hits
of the present season.

"Zovers in Porcelain," a gorgeous new Public presentation, staged by John Murray Anderson, is the stage feature.

Fairfax Theater.

"The Cohens and the Kellys" is the feature today and Friday at the Fairfax theater. The two families, one the descendants of Abraham, the other the children of Erin, of course are about as friendly as the well-versed cat and dog. When the Jewish family suddenly becomes rich they immediately proceed to high-hat the other families, which situation leads to some real comedy. Then comes more comedy when the young of the families fall in love. Don't miss this big laugh hit of the year. The picture for Saturday is "The Combat," featuring House
Peters.

The Metropolitan.

An unusually brilliant array of screen players, story and author is the happy combination that First National has put together for Milton Sills latest starring photoplay "Paradise" which is registering a distinct success at the Metropolitan theater.
The picture was filmed recently at the famous Hollywood novel of the same title. Betty Bronson, Charlie Murray, Noah Berry and Kate Price are other stars that play important parts in "Paradise."

One of the really big photoplays
of the season, "My Official Wife," starring Conway Tearle and Irene Rich is announced for next week.

Palace Theater.

Norma Talmadge in the role of "Kiki," the little French girl plays at the Palace theater Thursday and Friday offering one of the prime movie treats of the year to patrons of the popular community theater. The beautiful and talented Norma carries off
the difficult role of "Kiki" with a consummate grace that leaves audiences
gasping with the reality of the plot
and the gripping interest of the plot.

Tudor Theater.

Opening today at the Tudor is a splendid story of the west, with Fred Hume, a new star who has risen to screen prominence through his successful acting, his wonderful riding and fast action, in "The Yellow Back." Replete with thrills and action, "The Yellow Back" has been pronounced one of the finest, most entertaining
western pictures released in some time.

The Forsyth.

Literally sweeping audiences
into hysterics with its riotous humor and rich comedy, "Grounds for Divorce," is entering its third week of the week with every indication of closing with the record of having played to more Atlantans than any other stage of the season.

With Jimmy Coons and Jeanne De-vreaux showing the way in a Broadway success that swept Broadway off its feet, these two stars of the Forsyth Players are showing Atlanta just why and how Broadway laughed and laughed. "Grounds for Divorce" is far and above the best comedy of the year and theatergoers who miss seeing it will have let an opportunity that comes infrequently slip away from them.

Tenth Street Theater.

Opening a run of today and tomorrow at the Tenth Street theater, "The Unknown Soldier," heralded as one of the most popular films ever made with the world war as the subject, is slated
to pack 'em in on both days.
Charles Emmett and Marguerite
de LaMotte are featured at the head of a big cast including Henry B. Walthall. "The Unknown Soldier," as the title suggests, deals with the fate of the Unknown Soldier in the world war.

West End Theater.

Imagine Bebe Daniels as a wealthy snob! That's just what she is in the Campus Flirt, her comedy success which is playing today and tomorrow at the West End theater. She has been educated abroad and in foreign conservatories until a pater-nally and she enters an American college with the idea that she is IT.
